Wealthy Europeans buying SeMo farmland

By RON PORTER

Wealthy Europeans are showing up in Southeast Missouri looking to purchase farm land, apparently fearful of their political future in Europe.

A rich West German landowner recently bought a 2,700 acre tract of land near Dorena in Mississippi County for a reported $3 million.

A smaller parcel of land has been sold in Stoddard County.

The wife of a local real estate agent, who has been handling most of the foreign buyers, confirmed that a number of Europeans have been in the area over the past year looking at farmland.

She asked that neither her husband's name nor the names of the Europeans be used, saying that the Europeans "want very little publicity."

She said the Europeans come from France, West Germany and Belgium. A group of West Germans was in town last week.

She added that two or three parcels had been sold in the past year.

The influx of European buyers began about 18 months ago and is widespread throughout the state.

The Europeans are apparently being motivated by fear of leftist of Communist takeovers of their governments, confiscation of their wealth and the lure of relatively low-price, highly productive and protected U.S. land.

The first wave of Europeans started shopping for land in 1973 when soybean prices soared to $12 a bushel and corn to $4.

During that same time Europe was in a political and economic turmoil. The Europeans began looking at the Midwest, seeing it as hedge against an uncertain future.

In addition to Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Indiana and Arkansas are getting their share of buyers.

Said one St. Louis real estate agent: "Germans look at the Berlin Wall and panic. They want farmland and fear leftist or Communist takeovers."

Another said, "These are families who want to diversify their holdings. They are very concerned about the trend toward socialism and communism in Europe. To them, this is one of the last places where an investment is safe from a takeover by the government.

"Many of these people are buying this for their next generation, their children. They really feel their children may come over here and live on it."

For that privilage they are reportedly paying as much as $1,500 an acre. In Europe, high-yield farmland sells for between $10,000 and $12,000 an acre.

The Europeans use management companies to operate the farms.

The Europeans are forming syndicates and cooperatives to buy the land. The reason they do not want their names used is that it is illegal for Europeans to remove large amounts of capital from their countries.

The influx of foreign buyers is beginning to worry state agriculture officials.

"Land appreciation could become a problem," state agriculture Director Jack Runyan said this week. "If land becomes less affordable there'll be less expansion for the farmers we have now,"

Runyan said he would like to see the state's corporate farm law strengthened to limit the number of acres a foreigner can buy. Iowa has such a law and Runyan said he will propose a similar statute during the next legislative session.

"My only concern is I think these people are upping the price of farmland beyond the reach of the small Missouri farmer," he said.

But at least one local real estate agent does not believe the foreigners are inflating the price of local farmland.

David Bird of Davis and Bird, said the Europeans are paying the same price as buyers from other states, and there are plenty of those.

Bird said his firm was approached to handle a foreign sale and declined. He said there are so many Americans wanting to buy Missouri farm land, which is lower priced than in many other parts of the nation, that his firm does not have to get involved with Europeans.

The Europeans seem to prefer corn, soybean and wheat farms. They also seem to prefer farms in Missouri rather than in Illinois or Iowa, where land can sell for $3,000 to $4,000

One real estate firm reported it sold a 2,000 acre dairy farm in Illinois, which is somewhat unusual.

In 1976, investment in U.S. farmland by West Germans reached $1.89 million, the first time German investment in the U.S. surpassed U.S. investment in Germany.

The foriegners generally credited with having the most money, the Japanese and Arabs, have shown little interest in buying farmland.

The Japanese prefer to invest in warehouses, grain elevators or other businesses. Arabs seem more interested in hotels, office buildings and resorts.

Runyan and other real estate agents in Missouri handling foreign sales say no one should worry about the Europeans overwhelming the state.

So far this year only 11,250 acres have been sold in Missouri to foreign buyers. There are 32 million acres of farmland in the state.

Tatum brothers competent to stand trial

CHARLESTON – The Tatum brothers, Frankie, 23, and Jimmy 19, of Anniston, charged with the July 14 stabbing death of Mrs. Mary Helen Finley, 44, of rural Charleston, have been declared competent to stand trial on the charges.

Reports on the pre-trial psychiatric examination for the two men, ordered by Magistrate Judge W. Clifton Banta Sr., were received Thursday from the maximum security Fulton State Hospital, where they were taken in August.

The older Tatum is charged with capital murder, an offense punishable by death, and is being held on $1 million bond. Jimmy Tatum, held on $100,00 bond, is charged with first degree murder.

The report on Frankie Tatum found that he has no mental Disease or defect and has the capacity to understand the procedings against him and can assist in his own defense.

The report also states that Tatum did know and appreciate the nature, quality and wrongfulness of his alleged conduct and was capable of conforming his conduct to the requirements of the law.

No mental disorder was found during the examination of Jimmy Tatum, who also is reportedly capable of understanding the procedings against him, the nature, quality and wrongfulness of his alleged crime. He is also able to assist in his own defense and capable of conforming his conduct to the requirements of the law.

The report concluded that neither defendant requires hospitalization, pending further procedings against them.

Mrs. Finley was abducted about dusk on July 14 near her home on Charleston Route One. She was returning home from a grocery store when she was reportedly taken from her bicycle, which was found about 200 yards from her home.

The body was discovered about 7:30 a.m. July 15 near the mouth of a road ditch culvert, following an all-night search by law officials. She had been stabbed numerous times in the chest, back and throat.

Frankie Tatum was arrested less than seven hours after the discovery of the body. His brother was arrested about 8:25 p.m. July 16 at Anniston.

Preliminary hearings for the two men have been scheduled for Sept. 15 in Magistrate court.

Cotton Top contest is scheduled for Sept. 21

First on the list of Cotton Carnival activities this year is the "Cotton Top King and Queen" contest, scheduled for Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

The contest, one of many during the week of the 33rd Cotton Carnival, set for Sept. 19-24 and sponsored by Henry Meldrum American Legion Post No. 114, is open to any boy or girl in the area between the ages of four and six. He or she must, however, have blond hair.

Parents interested in entering their youngsters in this contest are required to fill out the blank in today's edition of the Daily Standard and mail it to Tom Marshall, P.O. Box 673, Sikeston, 63801. Entries should be behind stage at Legion Park at 6:45 p.m. Sept. 21. No entries will be accepted after Sept. 20.

6 thefts investigated

Public safety officers had a busy day Thursday with six thefts reported, the Public Safety Department said today.

Thieves took $77 in cash, hidden beneath a counter inside Sikeston Auto Salvage, 1615 W. Malone Ave., between 6 p.m. Wednesday and 8 a.m. Thursday.

A portable black and white television worth $92 was taken from the George Harris home, 1600 W. North St., between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Thursday. Entry to the house was apparently gained by prying open the back door.

Four wheel covers worth $120 were taken from a pickujp truck belonging to Hudson Goza of Essex Route One. The theft occurred between 9 p.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday, while the truck was parked at Goza-Harper Motor Co., 225 E. Malone Ave.

Violet Coatney of Route One told officers she had taken a motorbike to A&D mower center 1525 E. Malone Ave., on Aug. 6 to have it repaired. When she returned Thursday, the shop was closed and the motorbike was gone.

The owners of the shop left no forwarding address. The bike was valued at $250.

Leona Holden, 627 Greer St., reported that a portable television set and tape player was taken from her porch about 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

The TV-tape player was later recovered at the Dollar Store on South Main Street where it had been abandoned. The TV was valued at $270.

Commodore R. York, 610 Taylor St., reported the theft of a tool box worth $20 and tools worth $200 from his pickup truck while it was parked at his home. The theft occurred between 4 p.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday.

Black unemployment increases in August

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate rose from 6.9 per cent to 7.1 per cent in August as climbing unemployment among blacks matched a post+World War II high, the government reported today.

In August, the Labor Department said, "the over-the-month increase in unemployment was concentrated among black workers," whose jobless rate rose from 13.2 per cent to 14.5 per cent. The August level matched the post-war high for blacks recorded during the recession in September 1975.

Unemployment among blacks has been traditionally higher than for whites, whose jobless rate was unchanged last month at 6.1 per cent.

Overall joblessness has hovered at about 7 per cent of the work force since April, showing little month-to-month change after dropping steadily from its 1976 high of 8 per cent last November.

Economists say economic growth has slowed following a sharp expansion earlier in the year, and this means fewer jobs are being created to meet the needs of the growing labor force.

"The ratio of black-to-white jobless rates continued its recent updrift to the unusually high level of 2.4 to 1 in August," the Labor Department said.

The rise in black unemployment comes at a time that civil rights and labor leaders have been increasingly criticizing the Carter administration programs for easing unemployment. Earlier this week, the government released figures showing joblessness among black youth, age 16 to 21, reached the highest summertime rate ever recorded — 34.8 per cent.

AFL+CIO President George Meany said today in his annual Labor Day message that President Carter's job-creating programs were nothing more than "Band-aids" and that they would do little to solve the basic unemployment problem.

While the jobless rate rose in August, returning to its June level of 7.1 per cent, the Labor Department reported employment increased by 210,000 to a total of 90.8 million.

The civilian labor force rose by 390,000 in August to a total of 97.7 million, the department said. Both employment and unemployment increased because more people were looking for work than were able to find jobs.

The total number of unemployed was up by 180,000 in August to 6.9 million, with most of the increase occuring among persons who lost their jobs, the Labor Department said.

There is some margin of error as with any survey. But the government contends the relatively large size of the sample assures a high degree of accuracy.

3 hospitalized in 3-vehicle accident here

Three persons were hospitalized in a three-vehicle accident about 4 p.m. Thursday at the Holiday Inn intersection.

All three were in a pickup truck and are reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Injured were the driver Levi Morton, 74, of Kewanee, with multiple bruises; and two passengers, Delola Morton, 70, of Kewanee with multiple bruises; and Grace Watkins 64, of Nevada Route One with a fractured wrist.

Their pickup truck and an automobile driven by Jacqulynn Francis Presson, 50, of Charleston Route One, were crossing through the intersection of the two highways when they were struck by a transport truck driven by Thomas Eugene Morgan 25, of Poplar Bluff.

Morton was heading south on Highway 61 and the Presson car was turning east onto Highway 60 from the south bound lane. The transport was eastbound.

Morton and the Presson woman told officers they had green lights and Morgan told officers the light on Highway 60 was still amber.

There were no arrests, officers said.

Immunization clinics set

The Scott County Health Department will conduct an additional immunization clinic each Wednesday during September for school children, it was announced today by Warren Manning, administrator.

The clinics will be held at the branch office at 804 Tanner St. in Sikeston each Wednesday from 3 to 4 p.m.

Each child must have a written order from a physician and be accompanied by a parent.

Manning said the regular monthly clinic will also be held on Sept. 13 from 2 to 4 p.m. A doctor will be present.

Scorpio asks injunction

The attorney for the Scorpio Massage, 1118 W. Malone Ave., has asked that Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig issue an injunction restraining city officials from enforcing Sikeston's new massage parlor ordinance.

Craig is out of town and has not ruled on the request. He is expected to do so next week.

The attorney, Gene Yokley, was not available this morning for comment.

City Manager Charles Church said this morning that preliminary steps had been taken to enforce the ordinance. He declined to go into further detail.

The ordinance went into effect Thursday. It lays down strict guidelines that the parlors must follow if they are to remain in business.

Attempted burglary foiled

NEW MADRID – An attempted burglary was apparently foiled here this morning at New Madrid Auto Sales, Highway 61.

Officer Dave Blankenship spotted someone inside the building about 12:30 a.m. while he was on routine patrol. The intruder escaped through a hand-raise garage door without taking anything.

Marshal Virgil "Flip" Dees also reported that a coin gum-vending machine was stolen Thursday night from a restroom at Martin Oil Co. on Highway 61, and a soft drink machine was vandalized and 10 soft drinks were taken from Thurman's Service Station on S. Main St.

Farmers concerned over EPA rules

Restricted use of farm chemicals and the resulting impact on agricultural prices was the major topic during a news conference at Ramada Inn this morning.

Missouri Farm Bureau president C.F. "Dick" Johnston and area farmers hosted the conference to aquant the media with the need for chemicals in a modern farming operation nad to complain about news coverage that depicts farmers as destroyers of fish and game, and despoilers of the environment.

Johnston cited the information gap that exists between the city consumer of food and the rural food producer. Not only did Johnston and others speaking for farmers indicate that the city dweller has little understanding of the need for the use of farm chemicals, but they also said there has been little mention of the impact agriculture has on urban areas.

It was pointed out that if the current trend in eliminating farm chemicals from use continues, not only will food no longer be available in the quantity it now is, but its cost will increase dramatically. What would happen if chemical control were banned, according to Johnston, is that total crops and livestock would be reduced by at least 30 per cent; families could spend 30 to 40 per cent of their income for food instead of the current 17 per cent; with the same farmland acres as today, about 50 per cent of the population would be hungry or starve to death.

Johnston said farmers do not question the need for careful regulation to help insure a safe, clean environment, which is just as important to the farmer as anyone else. However, Johnston indicated that current Environmental Protection Agency and Food and Drug Administration regulations are not well thought out, and through their arbitrary implementation could do serious damage to U.S. agriculture.

Agriculturalists said they are looking to U.S. Rep. Bill D. Burlison of Cape Girardeau and state Sen. Ike Skelton of Lexington to help promote the list of nine major points to help protect pesticides, herbicides and other agriculture chemicals when the House Agricultural Committee meets Sept. 7 and 8.

The points include those that provide authority for states to register "minor" or "specialty" use pesticides, independent of any federal oversight except FDA food and feed crop residue requirements; Require EPA to develop separate, less restrictive standards for federal registration of "minor use" pesticides; require EPA to prepare an agriculture impact statement prior to the issuance of any regulation; require EPA to consider restructing a pesticide use rather than canceling its registration; require EPA to certify farmers in any state, if the governor, with the concurrence of the state legislature, so requests.

Other points were to limit EPA's authority for enforcement against misuse; transfer to the states primary responsibility for enforcement; protect the property rights of those companies doing basic "research and developement" work on new and existing pesticides; and authorize the EPA administrator to register pesticides prior to completion of a final long-term study.

The agriculturalists said that the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Redenticide act (FIFRA) of 1942, and the subsequent Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act(FEPCA) of 1972, were not really the problems, but rather it was the EPA's administration of the act that created the problem.

Farmers at the meeting also said they had been given a bad rap by environmentalists, with respect to the destruction of wildlife.

According to Bud Storey of Charleston, farmers are the leading conservationists in the country, providing the wildlife with food, cover, and protection, to the point where there are now record deer herds, and harvests of all types of game birds are setting high marks year after year.

Storey blasted media reports of fish kills and other environmental accidents as being blown out of proportion. Johnston said there would regrettably be accidents in the use of farm chemicals, as there are with other aspects of manufacturing and production, but it does not mean the chemicals should be banned at the cost of economic destruction of the agriculture industries.

It was pointed out that 800,000 farmers with the aid of chemicals, produce 72 per cent of the nations food and fiber, and that farms also account for the sale of 25 per cent of the hard goods in the U.S. These are industrial and manufactured goods sold to farmers for use in farm production.

Finally, it was indicated that if the production of food and fiber was curtailed through the restriction of chemicals, then there would be much less to export, which would do extensive damage to the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

Immunization clinics set

The Scott County Health Department will conduct an additional immunization clinic each Wednesday during September for school children, it was announced today by Warren Manning, administrator.

The clinics will be held at the branch office at 804 Tanner St. in Sikeston each Wednesday from 3 to 4 p.m.

Each child must have a written order from a physician and be accompanied by a parent.

Manning said the regular monthly clinic will also be held on Sept. 13 from 2 to 4 p.m. A doctor will be present.

Scorpio asks injunction

The attorney for the Scorpio Massage, 1118 W. Malone Ave., has asked that Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig issue an injunction restraining city officials from enforcing Sikeston's new massage parlor ordinance.

Craig is out of town and has not ruled on the request. He is expected to do so next week.

The attorney, Gene Yokley, was not available this morning for comment.

City Manager Charles Church said this morning that preliminary steps had been taken to enforce the ordinance. He declined to go into further detail.

The ordinance went into effect Thursday. It lays down strict guidelines that the parlors must follow if they are to remain in business.

Attempted burglary foiled

NEW MADRID -- An attempted burglary was apparently foiled here this morning at New Madrid Auto Sales, Highway 61.

Officer Dave Blankenship spotted someone inside the building about 12:30 a.m. while he was on routine patrol. The intruder escaped through a hand-raise garage door without taking anything.

Marshal Virgil "Flip" Dees also reported that a coin gum-vending machine was stolen Thursday night from a restroom at Martin Oil Co. on Highway 61, and a soft drink machine was vandalized and 10 soft drinks were taken from Thurman's Service Station on S. Main St.

Farmers concerned over EPA rules

Restricted use of farm chemicals and the resulting impact on agricultural prices was the major topic during a news conference at Ramada Inn this morning.

Missouri Farm Bureau president C.F. "Dick" Johnston and area farmers hosted the conference to aquant the media with the need for chemicals in a modern farming operation nad to complain about news coverage that depicts farmers as destroyers of fish and game, and despoilers of the environment.

Johnston cited the information gap that exists between the city consumer of food and the rural food producer. Not only did Johnston and others speaking for farmers indicate that the city dweller has little understanding of the need for the use of farm chemicals, but they also said there has been little mention of the impact agriculture has on urban areas.

It was pointed out that if the current trend in eliminating farm chemicals from use continues, not only will food no longer be available in the quantity it now is, but its cost will increase dramatically. What would happen if chemical control were banned, according to Johnston, is that total crops and livestock would be reduced by at least 30 per cent; families could spend 30 to 40 per cent of their income for food instead of the current 17 per cent; with the same farmland acres as today, about 50 per cent of the population would be hungry or starve to death.

Johnston said farmers do not question the need for careful regulation to help insure a safe, clean environment, which is just as important to the farmer as anyone else. However, Johnston indicated that current Environmental Protection Agency and Food and Drug Administration regulations are not well thought out, and through their arbitrary implementation could do serious damage to U.S. agriculture.

Agriculturalists said they are looking to U.S. Rep. Bill D. Burlison of Cape Girardeau and state Sen. Ike Skelton of Lexington to help promote the list of nine major points to help protect pesticides, herbicides and other agriculture chemicals when the House Agricultural Committee meets Sept. 7 and 8.

The points include those that provide authority for states to register "minor" or "specialty" use pesticides, independent of any federal oversight except FDA food and feed crop residue requirements; Require EPA to develop separate, less restrictive standards for federal registration of "minor use" pesticides; require EPA to prepare an agriculture impact statement prior to the issuance of any regulation; require EPA to consider restructing a pesticide use rather than canceling its registration; require EPA to certify farmers in any state, if the governor, with the concurrence of the state legislature, so requests.

Other points were to limit EPA's authority for enforcement against misuse; transfer to the states primary responsibility for enforcement; protect the property rights of those companies doing basic "research and developement" work on new and existing pesticides; and authorize the EPA administrator to register pesticides prior to completion of a final long-term study.

The agriculturalists said that the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Redenticide act (FIFRA) of 1942, and the subsequent Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act(FEPCA) of 1972, were not really the problems, but rather it was the EPA's administration of the act that created the problem.

Farmers at the meeting also said they had been given a bad rap by environmentalists, with respect to the destruction of wildlife.

According to Bud Storey of Charleston, farmers are the leading conservationists in the country, providing the wildlife with food, cover, and protection, to the point where there are now record deer herds, and harvests of all types of game birds are setting high marks year after year.

Storey blasted media reports of fish kills and other environmental accidents as being blown out of proportion. Johnston said there would regrettably be accidents in the use of farm chemicals, as there are with other aspects of manufacturing and production, but it does not mean the chemicals should be banned at the cost of economic destruction of the agriculture industries.

It was pointed out that 800,000 farmers with the aid of chemicals, produce 72 per cent of the nations food and fiber, and that farms also account for the sale of 25 per cent of the hard goods in the U.S. These are industrial and manufactured goods sold to farmers for use in farm production.

Finally, it was indicated that if the production of food and fiber was curtailed through the restriction of chemicals, then there would be much less to export, which would do extensive damage to the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

'LAWYER RELIEF ACT"?

Rooting out crime and corruption will be more difficult than ever if Congress goes along with a change in the grand jury system proposed by the American Bar Association.

The ABA House of Delegates has overwhelmingly endorsed permitting witnesses called before grand juries to bring their lawyers into the grand jury room while answering questions.

This is contrary to current federal law and to the law in most states, where grand jury witnesses are required to leave the room if they insist on talking to a lawyer.

The ABA says lawyers would be present only as advisers to their clients, not as active participants. But prosecutors are afriad - as well they should be - that lawyers will disrupt the proceedings by raising objections of all kinds.

The presence of a lawyer could be particularly damaging in racketeering cases because it might cause a witness to clam up, knowing his statements were being relayed back to the mob.

It also would be harder to expose conspiracies if a lawyer were able to sit in on grand jury testimony and prevent nervous witnesses from contradicting each other.

Small wonder that Attorney General Griffin B. Bell calls the ABA proposal a "lawyer relief act" - another way to keep lawyers busy and prosperous - and promises to lobby against it on Capitol Hill.

The grand jury system, like any other law enforcement tool, has been abused from time to time - primarily by overzealous prosecutors trying to make a name for themselves.

On balance, though, the system has worked well, especially in cases involving political corruption or organized crime. Why destroy its effectiveness by turning it into a pale imitation of a criminal trial?

WHO THE LOBBY GIANTS ARE

If the amount of money spent by special interest groups on twisting congressional arms is an indication of "who runs America," then it's not big business. It isn't even big labor. It's the friendly people who deliver your daily mail.

By law, registered lobbyists are required to file quarterly reports of their spending with the clerk of the House of Representatives and the secretary of the Senate. According to the latest such report, the American Postal Workers Union led the list by a wide margin with $12 million.

This translates into more than $48 for each of the union's 249,000 members.

Third in line was the 151,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers with $4.7 million, or a little over $31 per head.

The $12.7 million spent by these two unions accounted for more than two-thirds of the $17.7 million spent by all unions combined.

Why the postal unions should be the country's leading lobbyists is a bit puzzling. The Post Office was supposedly taken out of congressional politics when it was reorganized several years ago into the public-private Postal Service, to be run by an independent Postal Commission. But presumably they're getting something for their money, even if the folks who buy stamps don't always.

It is also of interest to note that the second biggest lobby was the public-interest organization, Common Cause (one of whose causes is reform of the lobbying laws), which rang in with $5.8 million. Fifth largest was a group whose members truly do run America, the National Federation of Federal Employes, with $1.7 million.

The only industry group to make the Big Five who spent more than $1 million was the National Coal Association, which at $1.7 million was No. 4.

In terms of single issues, abortion and gun control are the subjects of the most intensive lobbying efforts. The National Committee for the Human Life Amendment spent more than $900,000 and 20 pro-or antigun control organizations spent a combined total of $1.5 million.

Compared to these, your oil or automotive people or others one hears so much about, are pennypinchers.

ANOTHER PLUS FOR MONROE COUNTIANS

Monroe County is not only one of the finest places in the universe in which to live, it is also for most of us a comforting thought to know that after death our graves will be cared for perpetually.

Probably in no other county in Missouri, maybe not even in the nation, have so many done so much to insure that graves of deceased residents will continue to be kept neat, clean and beautiful.

Relatives and friends of people buried in sixteen smaller cemeteries in the county have over the years donated money and created trust funds for the continued care of those cemeteried. The funds raised have been invested, trustees selected for each cemetery, and the income (interest) from the investments used for mowing, cleaning and so forth. In addition, there are several town cemeteries that have permanent cemetery funds, including Paris, where a city tax provides additional money.

The trustees must report to the circuit court each year how much has been received, what has been spent and for what, and the operating balance left on hand, as well as the total of the investments for each.

For too long, many of these cemeteries were neglected because the families had moved away, a church or village had ceased to exist, or some other reason.

Those perpetual care trust funds have remedied that situation. Those cemeteries that have not yet had a trust fund created for them should have one now. County Clerk Menefee can tell interested parties how to plan a trust fund for any cemetery in which you are interested.

SOME CRIME RESISTANCE TIPS FOR YOUR HOME

Clarence M. Kelley, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C., has issued the following Crime Resistance Alert to the nation in an effort to curb home burglaries:

"Think about the shock, the heartbreak and the anger that you would experience if you came home one evening and found that your residence had been burglarized. Think about your valuables—including momentos that you've collected and cherished over the years — being stolen or wantonly destroyed. Think about the possibility of walking in on a burglar while he was ransacking your home at night!

"Am I trying to scare you? No. I am hoping to make you aware that you could very well become a victim of burglary. I would also like you to think about -- and, more importa tly, practice -- techniques that can help you reduce the possibility of becoming a burglary victim!

"Most burglars won't take a second look at a house or apartment that appears to be occupied. To discourage these criminals from selecting your residence as a target, consider using the following antiburglary procedures to help create the impression that someone's home when you're out during the day or evening:

"1) Don't leave messages on the door or mailbox indicating your absence.

"2) Use electric timers to turn house lights and a radio on and off during evening hours.

"3) Enlist the help of neighbors to keep mail, newspapers and ads from collecting while you are away.

"4) Remember that unattended yards and unmowed lawns over an extended period of time are signs that the residents might be away.

"5) Consider also that when empty trash cans or when no trash cans are set out on collection day, it is an indication that the residents might not be home.

"6) Advise your local police, as well as a reliable neighbor, when your home will be unoccupied for any length of time and where you can be reached.

"In addition to these crime resistance tips, your local police may have other useful antiburglary suggestions."

Dada and the Emperor: Africa Ruled by a Score of Dictators, New Royalty and Old Marxists-Leninists

ILHA DO SAL, Republic of Cape Verde -- This new nation sprawls across 10 islands and five islets about 400 miles west of Afrida. It has some 300,000 souls, mostly hungry; an ambassador plenipotentiary from America, Edward Marks. And a one-party dictatorship. Not to mention an assembly seat in the United Nations with a vote equal to ours. There you have it. One nation. One vote.

And there you also have the profile of the big, once-dark continent across the Atlantic. It's a continent laden with some 20 dictatorships, left-wing military juntas, sadistic governments, public hangings and executions, concentration camp countries run by intellectual Marxists - Leninists, a "Dada" considered crazed by the public in Uganda, a self-appointed emperoror whose subjects must bow their heads at a distance of six feet, scheduled $12 million coronation and, in another small land, a $250 million presidential palace.

Let no one be so provincial as to believe that the 20 or more African dictators are characters out of old colonial literature. Or Saul Bellow. I've met some of them who've studied in Scotland's aberdeen University, in Oxford and Cambridge.

There is the veteran Marxist president of Guinea, Sekou Toure, who has hanged opponents in the capital's square. There are many like him in President Samora Moises Machel's Mozambique, for example, who thrive on concentration camps, scholars and poets though they be.

Of course, there's Uganda's Field Marshal Dr. Idi Amin Dada. He was infamous long before the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport. There's a story here which U.S. United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young might long ponder.

For some years now, the international labor movement has been futilely attempting to stop Amin from murdering union leaders.

Back on May Day, 1971, "Dada's" secret police kidnapped Uganda Mining Union President Rwanashonge. The next morning his tortured body was found floating in the lake. This was Amin's warning to the unionists. There were at least four other national Uganda labor chiefs so slaughtered: leaders of the Building, Construction and Allied Workers, the Uganda Textile and Garment Workers Union, a former national secretary of the National Labor Center and an official of the Public Employes Union.

Yet when Idi Amin appeared early this July at the Organization of African Unity in Gabon (where the local dictate is building that $250 million palace) the Uganda ruler was lustily cheered and loudly applauded.

As for another African egocentric, self-proclaimed (His Imperial Majesty) Emperor Bokassa the first, ruler of the Central African Empire, he beats prisoners to death with sticks. And last month Otto Kersten, general secretary of the Brussels- based International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, sent Emperor Bokassa (once an non-com) a telegram asking him to cease imprisoning recently arrested union officials.

But there wasn't any reply. The Emperor (once president for life of the Central African Republic) is too busy planning his coronation. He has set the celebration for this Dec. 4, a year after he took the crown no one thrust upon him. Reports from Paris have it that His Imperial Highness Bokassa has ordered a huge bronze throne, a gilded royal carriage, white horses, hot-house flowers, the whole thing. Cost: an estimated $12 million. Could feed his hungry people for a long time.

There's corruption on all sides. In Switzerland not too long ago, I was told of the Boeing 707 which arrives regularly at the Geneva International Airport from a big African "republic" loaded with gold and other precious stuff, like American dollars and German marks. The treasure goes right into numbered Swiss bank accounts.

And there is the latest of the continent's 49 nations, Djibouti. There are 104,000 people living in 8,800 square miles. One square mile of which is arable. Also has a one-party government.

At least 26 leaders in Africa have seized power by coup d'etat. Two kings, both good men, were slain during the seizures.

Victims of all this are the free press and free and open news coverage. There just isn't much of this even in the best of the new nations in the vast central chunk of Africa. Power corrupts philosophically as well as politically. There is, for example, one of the "most reasonable" of the rulers, Kenneth Kaunda, president of Zambia. I knew him in the U.S. Dined with him. Lengthily he talked of freedoms.

But he was in the opposition then. Once in power, he cracked down on the media. Brutalized it. Arrested domestic and foreign news people.

As there should be, there is heavily covered racial conflict in southern Africa. But there is a long running story north of it and south of the Sahara. There has been and is government by assassination. There are lands with no free press, no freedom of anything. Why is there universal silence? Why is all this seemingly condoned by the absence of criticism?

Should it not be apparent to Ambassador Young, for example, that to the tortured ones, the imprisoned, the hungry, it makes no difference who butchers them or starves them. A cut throat, an empty belly, knows no color. Just sharp pain.

Yes, let's talk about one man, one vote (and while we're at it, what about the man's wives?). But let's also talk loudly about the approval by default of criticism, of one nation, one dictator.

Or isn't anyone taking "Dada" and His Imperial Majesty and all these anti-U.S. Marxist dictatorships as personal and philosophical insults?

WESTMORELAND ASSESSMENT

By PHYLLIS SCHAFLY
Copley News Service

Now that the anguish and bitterness associated with the Vietnam War have dimmed, it is time to start assessing our mistakes and redesigning our defenses against any recurrence.

That's the opinion of Gen. William C. Westmoreland who was field commander in Vietnam, 1956-68, and Army chief of staff, 1968-72. It isn't a pleasant task, but it is certainly useful and probably essential.

How did America get itself locked in a death embrace with South Vietnam that cost us 10 years, 55,000 lives and at least $140 billion?

It had its origin in the boast of young President John F. Kennedy, who was long on eloquent words but short on facing up to reality.

President Kennedy pledged to the world that Americans would "bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend and oppose any foe to assure the survival and success of liberty." In fulfillment of that promise, he sent advisers, Green Berets, and helicopters to Vietnam; but he also approved our involvement in the overthrow of President Diem, who was winning the war without U.S. ground troops.

President Lyndon Johnson inherited the problem and the obligation. Unfortunately he decided that the war would be run, not by military men, but by civilians whose decisions shifted with the ebb and flow of domestic political pressures.

LBJ is reported to have once boasted, "My boys can't even bomb an outhouse without my approval."

A career military officer, Westmoreland is restrained in his criticism of the way civilian bosses tied the hands of the military men from winning the war. He contents himself with reminding us that we should have used "timely and appropriate force to bring the war to an end."

In a recent speech, Westmoreland showed that he has obviously done a lot of thinking about what went wrong in Vietnam. His conclusions are not definitive, but they are a good springboard to the post-mortems that the American people should make.

The general calls for a nonpartisan review of our foreign policy every two years. That's an excellent idea.

Most of those in the past who called for a nonpartisan or bipartisan foreign policy really meant, "Foreign policy should be immune from any criticism on either side of the aisle." Westmoreland is asking for criticism from both sides of the aisle in order to keep foreign policy attuned to our national interest and cleansed of special-interest political pressures.

A major lesson we learned in the 1960s, according to Westmoreland, was the mistake of deferring college students. That policy was discriminatory and undemocratic. It contributed to the guilt complex that fomented anti-war activism and filled the faculties with those who avoided thedraft. The burden and hardship of war should not be borne by the poor man's son only.

The deferral of college students also hampered the war effort by forcing the Army to lower its standards for officers. Some marginal types were commissioned. Westmoreland pointed out that this was "the tragedy of Lt. Calley"; he obviously was not of officer caliber.

After college deferments ran out, the Army inducted thousands with graduate and postgraduate degrees. New problems were caused because many privates had a better education than their sergeants and lieutenants.

Maybe Westmoreland, being so close to the Vietnam War, is not one to give the final assessment on what went wrong in Vietnam. But his conclusions are a good place to start. It is not in the national interest to sweep the Vietnam mess under the rug and just forget it.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Suzi Implicates "Tip" In Koreagate Scandal

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Suzi Park Thomson, the glamour girl of the Korean scandal, has implicated House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill in secret testimony before the House Ethics Committee.

O'Neill and South Korean wheeler-dealer Tongsun Park were so close, said Thomson, that Park's staff frequently chased him down in the speaker's office.

The revelation came during five grueling hours of testimony before the committee last week. Until then, Ms. Thomson, a former Girl Friday for retired Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., had stubbornly resisted answering questions in secret session for the panel. She would rather testify in public, she said. She finally appeared for a closed-door hearing only after being threatened with a Contempt-of-Congress citation.

There is an unwritten rule on Capitol Hill that the "gentlemen" in Congress do not openly talk about one another. But hard-driving Republican freshman Bruce Caputo of New York is more interested in the facts than in back-scratching his colleagues. It was he who dared to broach the O'Neill-Park relationship.

The questioning of Thomson had been tedious and a few bored souls in the hearing room had been nodding. Then came Caputo's turn to question the witness. What had been the nature of the relationship, Caputo bluntly demanded, between Speaker O'Neill and Tongsun Park, the alleged payoff man who fled the country to avoid being questioned in the Korean affair.

Heads popped up. An electric tension penetrated the atmosphere of the hearing room. Ms. Thomson's attorney, Philip Hirschkop, asked Caputo to be more specific.

Caputo, one of the few lawmakers on the ethics panel who seems prepared to let the chips fall where they may, retorted with a more precise question. Had Ms. Thomson attended a party where O'Neill and Park were present?

"Yes," the petite divorcee replied tersely.

Had the two men been talking?

Ms. Thomson parried the question. She supposed they had said hello, she stated, but she hadn't made any effort to follow their conversation. The inquisitive New Yorker pressed her. Had it been a "serious" discussion, say in a corner of the room?

The witness continued to dance around the questions. She didn't watch things like that, she said politely.

The party Caputo was speaking of had been thrown by Park in honor of O'Neill's birthday. It was one of two Park soirees at which O'Neill had reportedly been the guest of honor. Now, continued Caputo, what exactly was the nature of the O'Neill-Park liaison?

Congressmen and staff members waited while Thomson turned to Hirschkop for a quiet conversation. The lawyer encouraged her to talk freely.

Haltingly, Thomson then recounted how Park's secretary had occasionally called Carl Albert's office in search of her boss. Park it seems, had left a message that he would be with the "leader." The secretary had mistakenly called Albert instead of O'Neill, who was then the majority leader.

Thomson had then called O'Neill's office and left a message for Park to call her. The Korean millionaire had indeed dropped by O'Neill's office, picked up his message and called her, Thomson testified.

According to our sources, incidentally, it was not uncommon for O'Neill and the Korean man-about-town to be together. O'Neill's staff, say insiders, often took messages for Park.

On some occasions, Ms. Thomson said, she had also seen former Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, Speaker Albert and others at Park's social gatherings. Albert, she continued, had attended only on behalf of lawmakers who were being feted by Park.

No other congressional inquisitor elicited testimony incriminating any of his colleagues. She had already told a grand jury, said Thomson, that she had no knowledge of Korean payoffs to Reps. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y. and Robert Leggett, D-Calif., as has been publicly alleged.

Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., asked Thomson if she knew anything about Korean Central Intelligence Agency activities in the United States. Thomson responded with an emphatic "No!" She conceded she had known several South Korean embassy officials, but not as KCIA agents. She specifically denied being associated with the KCIA herself, as press reports have suggested.

At one point, Thomson was asked if she had received any gifts from the Korean embassy. She replied that she was a relative of the wife of the former ambassador, Kim Dong Jo. Mrs. Kim had occasionally given her fresh "kim chee," a spicy Korean cabbage, and she, Thomson, had taught the ambassador's wife how to make fried rice and American sandwiches.

The ethics committee pressed Thomson on the subject of kim chee. She patiently explained that it was hot and garlicky and that she did not like to keep it in her refrigerator because it "stinks." She offered to cook up a meal for the committee to convince them of her talents.

In addition, said Thomson, Mrs. Kim had occasionally replenished her supply of Scotch from embassy stocks. But the amounts were really insignificant, Thomson insisted.

With one exception, Thomson remained calm and emotionless throughout the ordeal. Tears trickled down her cheeks when the committee began asking about her late father, a prominent South Korean who had been imprisoned by the Japanese for his pro-American views during World War II. Hirschkop spoke up to demand that any questions about her father be submitted in writing. The committee agreed.

WHO THE LOBBY GIANTS ARE

If the amount of money spent by special interest groups on twisting congressional arms is an indication of "who runs America," then it's not big business. It isn't even big labor. It's the friendly people who deliver your daily mail.

By law, registered lobbyists are required to file quarterly reports of their spending with the clerk of the House of Representatives and the secretary of the Senate. According to the latest such report, the American Postal Workers Union led the list by a wide margin with $12 million.

This translates into more than $48 for each of the union's 249,000 members.

Third in line was the 151,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers with $4.7 million, or a little over $31 per head.

The $12.7 million spent by these two unions accounted for more than two-thirds of the $17.7 million spent by all unions combined.

Why the postal unions should be the country's leading lobbyists is a bit puzzling. The Post Office was supposedly taken out of congressional politics when it was reorganized several years ago into the public-private Postal Service, to be run by an independent Postal Commission. But presumably they're getting something for their money, even if the folks who buy stamps don't always.

It is also of interest to note that the second biggest lobby was the public-interest organization, Common Cause (one of whose causes is reform of the lobbying laws), which rang in with $5.8 million. Fifth largest was a group whose members truly do run America, the National Federation of Federal Employes, with $1.7 million.

The only industry group to make the Big Five who spent more than $1 million was the National Coal Association, which at $1.7 million was No. 4.

In terms of single issues, abortion and gun control are the subjects of the most intensive lobbying efforts. The National Committee for the Human Life Amendment spent more than $900,000 and 20 pro-or antigun control organizations spent a combined total of $1.5 million.

Compared to these, your oil or automotive people or others one hears so much about, are pennypinchers.

ANOTHER PLUS FOR MONROE COUNTIANS

Monroe County is not only one of the finest places in the universe in which to live, it is also for most of us a comforting thought to know that after death our graves will be cared for perpetually.

Probably in no other county in Missouri, maybe not even in the nation, have so many done so much to insure that graves of deceased residents will continue to be kept neat, clean and beautiful.

Relatives and friends of people buried in sixteen smaller cemeteries in the county have over the years donated money and created trust funds for the continued care of those cemeteried. The funds raised have been invested, trustees selected for each cemetery, and the income (interest) from the investments used for mowing, cleaning and so forth. In addition, there are several town cemeteries that have permanent cemetery funds, including Paris, where a city tax provides additional money.

The trustees must report to the circuit court each year how much has been received, what has been spent and for what, and the operating balance left on hand, as well as the total of the investments for each.

For too long, many of these cemeteries were neglected because the families had moved away, a church or village had ceased to exist, or some other reason.

Those perpetual care trust funds have remedied that situation. Those cemeteries that have not yet had a trust fund created for them should have one now. County Clerk Menefee can tell interested parties how to plan a trust fund for any cemetery in which you are interested.

SOME CRIME RESISTANCE TIPS FOR YOUR HOME

Clarence M. Kelley, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C., has issued the following Crime Resistance Alert to the nation in an effort to curb home burglaries:

"Think about the shock, the heartbreak and the anger that you would experience if you came home one evening and found that your residence had been burglarized. Think about your valuables—including momentos that you've collected and cherished over the years — being stolen or wantonly destroyed. Think about the possibility of walking in on a burglar while he was ransacking your home at night!

"Am I trying to scare you? No. I am hoping to make you aware that you could very well become a victim of burglary. I would also like you to think about -- and, more importa tly, practice -- techniques that can help you reduce the possibility of becoming a burglary victim!

"Most burglars won't take a second look at a house or apartment that appears to be occupied. To discourage these criminals from selecting your residence as a target, consider using the following antiburglary procedures to help create the impression that someone's home when you're out during the day or evening:

"1) Don't leave messages on the door or mailbox indicating your absence.

"2) Use electric timers to turn house lights and a radio on and off during evening hours.

"3) Enlist the help of neighbors to keep mail, newspapers and ads from collecting while you are away.

"4) Remember that unattended yards and unmowed lawns over an extended period of time are signs that the residents might be away.

"5) Consider also that when empty trash cans or when no trash cans are set out on collection day, it is an indication that the residents might not be home.

"6) Advise your local police, as well as a reliable neighbor, when your home will be unoccupied for any length of time and where you can be reached.

"In addition to these crime resistance tips, your local police may have other useful antiburglary suggestions."

Dada and the Emperor: Africa Ruled by a Score of Dictators, New Royalty and Old Marxists-Leninists

ILHA DO SAL, Republic of Cape Verde -- This new nation sprawls across 10 islands and five islets about 300 miles west of Afrida. It has some 300,000 souls, mostly hungry; an ambassador plenipotentiary from America, Edward Marks. And a one-party dictatorship. Not to mention an assembly seat in the United Nations with a vote equal to ours. There you have it. One nation. One vote.

And there you also have the profile of the big, once-dark continent across the Atlantic. It's a continent laden with some 20 dictatorships, left-wing military juntas, sadistic governments, public hangings and executions, concentration camp countries run by intellectual Marxists - Leninists, a "Dada" considered crazed by the public in Uganda, a self-appointed emperoror whose subjects must bow their heads at a distance of six feet, scheduled $12 million coronation and, in another small land, a $250 million presidential palace.

Let no one be so provincial as to believe that the 20 or more African dictators are characters out of old colonial literature. Or Saul Bellow. I've met some of them who've studied in Scotland's aberdeen University, in Oxford and Cambridge.

There is the veteran Marxist president of Guinea, Sekou Toure, who has hanged opponents in the capital's square. There are many like him in President Samora Moises Machel's Mozambique, for example, who thrive on concentration camps, scholars and poets though they be.

Of course, there's Uganda's Field Marshal Dr. Idi Amin Dada. He was infamous long before the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport. There's a story here which U.S. United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young might long ponder.

For some years now, the international labor movement has been futilely attempting to stop Amin from murdering union leaders.

Back on May Day, 1971, "Dada's" secret police kidnapped Uganda Mining Union President Rwanashonge. The next morning his tortured body was found floating in the lake. This was Amin's warning to the unionists. There were at least four other national Uganda labor chiefs so slaughtered: leaders of the Building, Construction and Allied Workers, the Uganda Textile and Garment Workers Union, a former national secretary of the National Labor Center and an official of the Public Employes Union.

Yet when Idi Amin appeared early this July at the Organization of African Unity in Gabon (where the local dictate is building that $250 million palace) the Uganda ruler was lustily cheered and loudly applauded.

As for another African egocentric, self-proclaimed (His Imperial Majesty) Emperor Bokassa the first, ruler of the Central African Empire, he beats prisoners to death with sticks. And last month Otto Kersten, general secretary of the Brussels- based International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, sent Emperor Bokassa (once an non-com) a telegram asking him to cease imprisoning recently arrested union officials.

But there wasn't any reply. The Emperor (once president for life of the Central African Republic) is too busy planning his coronation. He has set the celebration for this Dec. 4, a year after he took the crown no one thrust upon him. Reports from Paris have it that His Imperial Highness Bokassa has ordered a huge bronze throne, a gilded royal carriage, white horses, hot-house flowers, the whole thing. Cost: an estimated $12 million. Could feed his hungry people for a long time.

There's corruption on all sides. In Switzerland not too long ago, I was told of the Boeing 707 which arrives regularly at the Geneva International Airport from a big African "republic" loaded with gold and other precious stuff, like American dollars and German marks. The treasure goes right into numbered Swiss bank accounts.

And there is the latest of the continent's 49 nations, Djibouti. There are 104,000 people living in 8,800 square miles. One square mile of which is arable. Also has a one-party government.

At least 26 leaders in Africa have seized power by coup d'etat. Two kings, both good men, were slain during the seizures.

Victims of all this are the free press and free and open news coverage. There just isn't much of this even in the best of the new nations in the vast central chunk of Africa. Power corrupts philosophically as well as politically. There is, for example, one of the "most reasonable" of the rulers, Kenneth Kaunda, president of Zambia. I knew him in the U.S. Dined with him. Lengthily he talked of freedoms.

But he was in the opposition then. Once in power, he cracked down on the media. Brutalized it. Arrested domestic and foreign news people.

As there should be, there is heavily covered racial conflict in southern Africa. But there is a long running story north of it and south of the Sahara. There has been and is government by assassination. There are lands with no free press, no freedom of anything. Why is there universal silence? Why is all this seemingly condoned by the absence of criticism?

Should it not be apparent to Ambassador Young, for example, that to the tortured ones, the imprisoned, the hungry, it makes no difference who butchers them or starves them. A cut throat, an empty belly, knows no color. Just sharp pain.

Yes, let's talk about one man, one vote (and while we're at it, what about the man's wives?). But let's also talk loudly about the approval by default of criticism, of one nation, one dictator.

Or isn't anyone taking "Dada" and His Imperial Majesty and all these anti-U.S. Marxist dictaterships as personal and philosophical insults?

WESTMORELAND ASSESSMENT
By PHYLLIS SCHAFLY
Copley News Service

Now that the anguish and bitterness associated with the Vietnam War have dimmed, it is time to start assessing our mistakes and redesigning our defenses against any recurrence.

That's the opinion of Gen. William C. Westmoreland who was field commander in Vietnam, 1956-68, and Army chief of staff, 1968-72. It isn't a pleasant task, but it is certainly useful and probably essential.

How did America get itself locked in a death embrace with South Vietnam that cost us 10 years, 55,000 lives and at least $140 billion?

It had its origin in the boast of young President John F. Kennedy, who was long on eloquent words but short on facing up to reality.

President Kennedy pledged to the world that Americans would "bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend and oppose any foe to assure the survival and success of liberty." In fulfillment of that promise, he sent advisers, Green Berets, and helicopters to Vietnam; but he also approved our involvement in the overthrow of President Diem, who was winning the war without U.S. ground troops.

President Lyndon Johnson inherited the problem and the obligation. Unfortunately he decided that the war would be run, not by military men, but by civilians whose decisions shifted with the ebb and flow of domestic political pressures.

LBJ is reported to have once boasted, "My boys can't even bomb an outhouse without my approval."

A career military officer, Westmoreland is restrained in his criticism of the way civilian bosses tied the hands of the military men from winning the war. He contents himself with reminding us that we should have used "timely and appropriate force to bring the war to an end."

In a recent speech, Westmoreland showed that he has obviously done a lot of thinking about what went wrong in Vietnam. His conclusions are not definitive, but they are a good springboard to the post-mortems that the American people should make.

The general calls for a nonpartisan review of our foreign policy every two years. That's an excellent idea.

Most of those in the past who called for a nonpartisan or bipartisan foreign policy really meant, "Foreign policy should be immune from any criticism on either side of the aisle." Westmoreland is asking for criticism from both sides of the aisle in order to keep foreign policy attuned to our national interest and cleansed of special-interest political pressures.

A major lesson we learned in the 1960s, according to Westmoreland, was the mistake of deferring college students. That policy was discriminatory and undemocratic. It contributed to the guilt complex that fomented anti-war activism and filled the faculties with those who avoided thedraft. The burden and hardship of war should not be borne by the poor man's son only.

The deferral of college students also hampered the war effort by forcing the Army to lower its standards for officers. Some marginal types were commissioned. Westmoreland pointed out that this was "the tragedy of Lt. Calley"; he obviously was not of officer caliber.

After college deferments ran out, the Army inducted thousands with graduate and postgraduate degrees. New problems were caused because many privates had a better education than their sergeants and lieutenants.

Maybe Westmoreland, being so close to the Vietnam War, is not one to give the final assessment on what went wrong in Vietnam. But his conclusions are a good place to start. It is not in the national interest to sweep the Vietnam mess under the rug and just forget it.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Suzi Implicates "Tip" In Koreagate Scandal

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Suzi Park Thomson, the glamour girl of the Korean scandal, has implicated House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill in secret testimony before the House Ethics Committee.

O'Neill and South Korean wheeler-dealer Tongsun Park were so close, said Thomson, that Park's staff frequently chased him down in the speaker's office.

The revelation came during five grueling hours of testimony before the committee last week. Until then, Ms. Thomson, a former Girl Friday for retired Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., had stubbornly resisted answering questions in secret session for the panel. She would rather testify in public, she said. She finally appeared for a closed-door hearing only after being threatened with a Contempt-of-Congress citation.

There is an unwritten rule on Capitol Hill that the "gentlemen" in Congress do not openly talk about one another. But hard-driving Republican freshman Bruce Caputo of New York is more interested in the facts than in back-scratching his colleagues. It was he who dared to broach the O'Neill-Park relationship.

The questioning of Thomson had been tedious and a few bored souls in the hearing room had been nodding. Then came Caputo's turn to question the witness. What had been the nature of the relationship, Caputo bluntly demanded, between Speaker O'Neill and Tongsun Park, the alleged payoff man who fled the country to avoid being questioned in the Korean affair.

Heads popped up. An electric tension penetrated the atmosphere of the hearing room. Ms. Thomson's attorney, Philip Hirschkop, asked Caputo to be more specific.

Caputo, one of the few lawmakers on the ethics panel who seems prepared to let the chips fall where they may, retorted with a more precise question. Had Ms. Thomson attended a party where O'Neill and Park were present?

"Yes," the petite divorcee replied tersely.

Had the two men been talking?

Ms. Thomson parried the question. She supposed they had said hello, she stated, but she hadn't made any effort to follow their conversation. The inquisitive New Yorker pressed her. Had it been a "serious" discussion, say in a corner of the room?

The witness continued to dance around the questions. She didn't watch things like that, she said politely.

The party Caputo was speaking of had been thrown by Park in honor of O'Neill's birthday. It was one of two Park soirees at which O'Neill had reportedly been the guest of honor. Now, continued Caputo, what exactly was the nature of the O'Neill-Park liaison?

Congressmen and staff members waited while Thomson turned to Hirschkop for a quiet conversation. The lawyer encouraged her to talk freely.

Haltingly, Thomson then recounted how Park's secretary had occasionally called Carl Albert's office in search of her boss. Park it seems, had left a message that he would be with the "leader." The secretary had mistakenly called Albert instead of O'Neill, who was then the majority leader.

Thomson had then called O'Neill's office and left a message for Park to call her. The Korean millionaire had indeed dropped by O'Neill's office, picked up his message and called her, Thomson testified.

According to our sources, incidentally, it was not uncommon for O'Neill and the Korean man-about-town to be together. O'Neill's staff, say insiders, often took messages for Park.

On some occasions, Ms. Thomson said, she had also seen former Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, Speaker Albert and others at Park's social gatherings. Albert, she continued, had attended only on behalf of lawmakers who were being feted by Park.

No other congressional inquisitor elicited testimony incriminating any of his colleagues. She had already told a grand jury, said Thomson, that she had no knowledge of Korean payoffs to Reps. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y. and Robert Leggett, D-Calif., as has been publicly alleged.

Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., asked Thomson if she knew anything about Korean Central Intelligence Agency activities in the United States. Thomson responded with an emphatic "No!" She conceded she had known several South Korean embassy officials, but not as KCIA agents. She specifically denied being associated with the KCIA herself, as press reports have suggested.

At one point, Thomson was asked if she had received any gifts from the Korean embassy. She replied that she was a relative of the wife of the former ambassador, Kim Dong Jo. Mrs. Kim had occasionally given her fresh "kim chee," a spicy Korean cabbage, and she, Thomson, had taught the ambassador's wife how to make fried rice and American sandwiches.

The ethics committee pressed Thomson on the subject of kim chee. She patiently explained that it was hot and garlicky and that she did not like to keep it in her refrigerator because it "stinks." She offered to cook up a meal for the committee to convince them of her talents.

In addition, said Thomson, Mrs. Kim had occasionally replenished her supply of Scotch from embassy stocks. But the amounts were really insignificant, Thomson insisted.

With one exception, Thomson remained calm and emotionless throughout the ordeal. Tears trickled down her cheeks when the committee began asking about her late father, a prominent South Korean who had been imprisoned by the Japanese for his pro-American views during World War II. Hirschkop spoke up to demand that any questions about her father be submitted in writing. The committee agreed.

Todays News In Brief

Anita hits Mexican coast

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, packing winds up to 155 miles per hour, slammed into the northeast Mexican coast before dawn today, washing out roads, uprooting trees and tearing off rooftops in a dozen or more fishing villages.

There was no immediate report of casualties. At least some of the villages had been evacuated hours beforehand.

The erratic storm moved west-southwest into Mexico and, by midmorning, its winds had diminished to less than 100 mph. It dumped several inches of rain over farming communities in its path.

Countless roads were washed out or blocked by mudslides, and communications were disrupted in some locations.

"We haven't had anything we can't handle," said Mario Flores, director of public safety for the state of Tamaulipas.

Families may leave Cuba soon

HAVANA (AP) — The head of the new U.S. diplomatic staff in Cuba, Lyle Lane, says he hopes several Americans can leave for the United States with their Cuban families "in a matter of days." Other American sources say the families won't leave before late next week at the earliest. After 16 years of official hostility between Washington and Fidel Castro's government, the United States and Cuba opened low-level missions called interest sections in each other's capitals Thursday.

Floating brothel considered

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Mayor Andre van der Louw and three other members of the City Council go to Denmark today to look over a 400-bed hotel ship that might be converted into a floating brothel in an abandoned area of the local docks. A campaign to confine the city's estimated 700 prostitutes to a secluded part of the city started in 1974 when the two main red light districts began spreading into residential districts.

Humphrey to leave hospital

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey was to be discharged from University of Minnesota Hospitals today, two weeks after undergoing cancer surgery.

Surgeons discovered an inoperable tumor of the pelvis. A colostomy was performed to relieve a bowel obstruction caused by the tumor and doctors will try to curb the spread of the cancer through chemotherapy, or chemical treatment.

Plans call for the 66-year-old senator to spend some time recuperating at his Waverly home before returning to Washington.

Carter holiday plans set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, putting Bert Lance and the Panama Canal issue behind him, is going to the presidential retreat at Camp David in western Maryland today, where he will spend the Labor Day weekend. First, however, he has set aside time in the Oval Office to greet country and western singers Willie Nelson and Emmy Lou Harris. An aide said they worked in the Carter campaign.

Bolles trial arguments begin

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Opening arguments were scheduled to begin today in the trial of two men charged with the June 1976 car-bomb murder of Arizona Republic reporter Don Bolles.

Phoenix contractor Max Dunlap, 48, and Chandler plumber James Robison, 55, are charged with first-degree murder and conspiracy in the slaying.

The arguments draw to close a lengthy pre-trial period in which more than a month was needed to select a jury of seven women and 11 men to hear testimony in the case. Jury selection began July 11.

A defense attorney told Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Howard Thompson Thursday he intends to prove Phoenix attorney Neal Roberts hired "someone" to kill Bolles. Roberts has not been charged in the case.

John Harvey Adamson, who pleaded guilty to second-degree murder charges in January, has testified he was hired by Dunlap to do the killing with the aid of Robison.

New Berkowitz hearing set

NEW YORK (AP) — Another court hearing has been set for next month into whether David Berkowitz, accused of the six "Son of Sam" killings, is mentally competent to stand trial.

On Thursday, Queens Dist. Atty. John Santucci read previously unreleased portions of the report from a Brooklyn court that said Berkowitz is "so emotionally dead that outcome of his case is immaterial to him."

The report added that the 24-year-old former postal worker "is well aware of the charges against him, understands that by society's standards his acts were criminal and has the intellectual capacity to learn whatever there is about legal proceedings that he does not already know."

Earlier this week, a portion of the report presented to a Brooklyn court said Berkowitz should not stand trial because he is not capable of helping in his own defense due to a psychosis. It added that it was impossible to tell if he later would be able to aid in his defense.

Santucci argued that in order to be judged incapable of standing trial, a defendant must not be aware of the charges against him and must lack the intellectual capacity to help defense lawyers.

59 Fifth Amendment pleas

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The long-awaited questioning of Russell E. Phillips, credited with conceiving the now-bankrupt Progressive Farmers Association in 1973, has yielded little information on the business deals that apparently drained the cooperative's finances from the start.

On 59 different occasions Thursday, Phillips stood behind the constitutional protection of the Fifth Amendment when asked about the details of those transactions between the southwest Missouri cooperative and businesses he reportedly owned or controlled.

"I refuse to answer because it might tend to incriminate me," Phillips continually responded to questions from court-appointed PFA trustee Richard Farrington.

After an hour of questioning Phillips before U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Jack Jones, Farrington said, "I don't think we're going to get anywhere with this witness, in fact I'm convinced of it."

Meany chides job approach

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany says the Carter administration is applying only "Band+Aids" to ea e the country's unemployment problem.

In his annual Labor Day message, released today, the AFLcio president chided the administration for what he said is its failure to develop a comprehensive plan to put people to work in good jobs at decent wages.

"There are public service jobs, housing programs, mass transit programs, public woks, school aid — but they are essentially BXAND+Aids for specific problems and dust don't come to grips with the more generat problem of mass unemployhment," Meany said.

Meany, organized labor's chief spokesman, renewed his appeal for congressional enactment of the HumphreyHawkinsFull Employment and Balanced Growth Act.

Nixon accepts explanation

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon has told interviewer David Frost that he believes Rosemary Woods' explanation for part of an 18½-minute gap in a crucial Watergate tape. Miss Woods, Nixon's former personal secretary, said the erasure may have happened when she answered a telephone while transcribing the tape. The interview, the fifth in a series of televised discussions between Frost and the former president, will be broadcast in 60 cities starting Sunday.

Todays News In Brief

Anita hits Mexican coast

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Anita, packing winds up to 155 miles per hour, slammed into the northeast Mexican coast before dawn today, washing out roads, uprooting trees and tearing off rooftops in a dozen or more fishing villages.

There was no immediate report of casualties. At least some of the villages had been evacuated hours beforehand.

The erratic storm moved west-southwest into Mexico and, by midmorning, its winds had diminished to less than 100 mph. It dumped several inches of rain over farming communities in its path.

Countless roads were washed out or blocked by mudslides, and communications were disrupted in some locations.

"We haven't had anything we can't handle," said Mario Flores, director of public safety for the state of Tamaulipas.

Families may leave Cuba soon

HAVANA (AP) — The head of the new U.S. diplomatic staff in Cuba, Lyle Lane, says he hopes several Americans can leave for the United States with their Cuban families "in a matter of days." Other American sources say the families won't leave before late next week at the earliest. After 16 years of official hostility between Washington and Fidel Castro's government, the United States and Cuba opened low-level missions called interest sections in each other's capitals Thursday.

Floating brothel considered

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Mayor Andre van der Louw and three other members of the City Council go to Denmark today to look over a 400-bed hotel ship that might be converted into a floating brothel in an abandoned area of the local docks. A campaign to confine the city's estimated 700 prostitutes to a secluded part of the city started in 1974 when the two main red light districts began spreading into residential districts.

Humphrey to leave hospital

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey was to be discharged from University of Minnesota Hospitals today, two weeks after undergoing cancer surgery.

Surgeons discovered an inoperable tumor of the pelvis. A colostomy was performed to relieve a bowel obstruction caused by the tumor and doctors will try to curb the spread of the cancer through chemotherapy, or chemical treatment.

Plans call for the 66-year-old senator to spend some time recuperating at his Waverly home before returning to Washington.

Carter holiday plans set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, putting Bert Lance and the Panama Canal issue behind him, is going to the presidential retreat at Camp David in western Maryland today, where he will spend the Labor Day weekend. First, however, he has set aside time in the Oval Office to greet country and western singers Willie Nelson and Emmy Lou Harris. An aide said they worked in the Carter campaign.

Bolles trial arguments begin

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Opening arguments were scheduled to begin today in the trial of two men charged with the June 1976 car-bomb murder of Arizona Republic reporter Don Bolles.

Phoenix contractor Max Dunlap, 48, and Chandler plumber James Robison, 55, are charged with first-degree murder and conspiracy in the slaying.

The arguments draw to close a lengthy pre-trial period in which more than a month was needed to select a jury of seven women and 11 men to hear testimony in the case. Jury selection began July 11.

A defense attorney told Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Howard Thompson Thursday he intends to prove Phoenix attorney Neal Roberts hired "someone" to kill Bolles. Roberts has not been charged in the case.

John Harvey Adamson, who pleaded guilty to second-degree murder charges in January, has testified he was hired by Dunlap to do the killing with the aid of Robison.

New Berkowitz hearing set

NEW YORK (AP) — Another court hearing has been set for next month into whether David Berkowitz, accused of the six "Son of Sam" killings, is mentally competent to stand trial.

On Thursday, Queens Dist. Atty. John Santucci read previously unreleased portions of the report from a Brooklyn court that said Berkowitz is "so emotionally dead that outcome of his case is immaterial to him."

The report added that the 24-year-old former postal worker "is well aware of the charges against him, understands that by society's standards his acts were criminal and has the intellectual capacity to learn whatever there is about legal proceedings that he does not already know."

Earlier this week, a portion of the report presented to a Brooklyn court said Berkowitz should not stand trial because he is not capable of helping in his own defense due to a psychosis. It added that it was impossible to tell if he later would be able to aid in his defense.

Santucci argued that in order to be judged incapable of standing trial, a defendant must not be aware of the charges against him and must lack the intellectual capacity to help defense lawyers.

59 Fifth Amendment pleas

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The long-awaited questioning of Russell E. Phillips, credited with conceiving the now-bankrupt Progressive Farmers Association in 1973, has yielded little information on the business deals that apparently drained the cooperative's finances from the start.

On 59 different occasions Thursday, Phillips stood behind the constitutional protection of the Fifth Amendment when asked about the details of those transactions between the southwest Missouri cooperative and businesses he reportedly owned or controlled.

"I refuse to answer because it might tend to incriminate me," Phillips continually responded to questions from court-appointed PFA trustee Richard Farrington.

After an hour of questioning Phillips before U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Jack Jones, Farrington said, "I don't think we're going to get anywhere with this witness, in fact I'm convinced of it."

Meany chides job approach

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany says the Carter administration is applying only "Band+Aids" to ea e the country's unemployment problem.

In his annual Labor Day message, released today, the AFLbcio president chided the administration for what he said is its failure to develop a comprehensive plan to put people to work in good jobs at decent wages.

"There are public service jobs, housing programs, mass transit programs, public woks, school aid — but they are essentially BXAND+Aids for specific problems and dust don't come to grips with the more generat problem of mass unemployhment," Meany said.

Meany, organized labor's chief spokesman, renewed his appeal for congressional enactment of the HumphreyHawkinsFull Employment and Balanced Growth Act.

Nixon accepts explanation

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon has told interviewer David Frost that he believes Rosemary Woods' explanation for part of an 18½-minute gap in a crucial Watergate tape. Miss Woods, Nixon's former personal secretary, said the erasure may have happened when she answered a telephone while transcribing the tape. The interview, the fifth in a series of televised discussions between Frost and the former president, will be broadcast in 60 cities starting Sunday.

Dear Ann Landers

Vacation turns sour

Dear Ann Landers: Recently my husband and I invited our two sons and their wives on a 6,000-mile trip. We bought their airline tickets, paid their hotel bills, bought meals and rented cars everywhere we went.

On two occasions when we wanted to start sightseeing early, we had breakfast out of the hotel. Both times the older son told the waitress, "Separate checks, please." (He and his brother are in the $20,000-a-year bracket.)

The last night of the trip, the boys and their wives "made other plans" and could not find time to have dinner with us. My husband was furious and told them off. Needless to say, the "vacation" ended on a sour note. I'm ashamed to sign my name, but would appreciate your comments on the ingratitude of this generation. -- N.Y., N.Y.

Dear N.Y.: It isn't THIS generation -- it's every generation from the beginning of time. Remember "Sharper than a serpent's tooth..."?

Six thousand miles of togetherness for three grown couples in the same family is a bit much, unless it's a super-special tribe. If it's advice you want, here it is: Don't try to buy the companionship of your children. If you think I'm being hardboiled, ask yourself this: Would your sons and their wives have accompanied you on that trip if they had to pay for it themselves?

Dear Ann Landers: I have been seeing Mr. G for about eight months. He has given me some nice gifts -- mostly jewelry. First a gold bracelet, then gold earrings and last month a wrist watch with 16 diamonds that look like glass.

Problem: The gold turns my wrist and ears green and one of the diamonds broke in half. Does this mean the jewelry is fake? -- Just Wondering

Dear Just: If you want an accurate evaluation of the jewelry, take it to a jeweler. This I can tell you, however -- even fine gold will cause a wrist or an ear to turn green if the person's chemistry is a little off. As for the "diamond," it's possible to crack a real diamond, but it would require a very hard blow.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an exhausted mother who needs help. Our older boy is brain-damaged and cannot do many things for himself that most nine-year-olds can do. We had our younger boy (age six) tested three months ago and he is "hyperkinetic." I had never even heard the word before. I thought he was just overly energetic. (His teacher suggested we get him evaluated.)

We can't afford help and my mother is not well enough to give me a hand with these two children. Can you suggest some reading material that might help me cope? If I understood more about my children's problems I would do better by them as well as myself. Thanks, Ann. -- Having A Rough Time

Dear Mother: Help is as near as your mailbox. Write to The Exceptional Parent, P.O. Box 641, Penacook, N.H., 03301. This magazine is the best thing I've seen for parents whose children have disabilities of all kinds. It offers notonly practical guidance but emotional support. The price is $10 for six issues and worth every cent.

Dear Ann Landers: I heard again today that teenagers are very rude and inconsiderate especially when they are driving. This is not true and I wish you'd disabuse the public of the falsehood.

Yesterday, on my way to work, I saw a car in a parking lane trying to get into the flow of traffic. I slowed down and let him in ahead of me. The car pulled away without a nod or a wave of thanks. The driver was about 50 years of age.

For the last three months I've been doing a private survey. My findings were completed this morning. Here are the results. The middle-aged and older drivers are about six times as unlikely to show appreciation for any small courtesy. Younger drivers (especially teenagers) are much more courteous and friendly. -- Test From The Midwest

Dear Test: Thanks for the clue-in. Let's hear it for those considerate and friendly drivers, folks. Statistics also show they live longer.

Don't flunk your chesistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Bears gunning for Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals own two victories in a row over the Chicago Bears, but Coach Jack Pardee of the Bears is looking for a turnaround.

"If we play our best, we have a chance to beat anybody," says Pardee, whose National Football League team invades Busch Stadium tonight.

Pardee, while recalling St. Louis' 20-14 victory over Chicago during the NFL's 1976 preseason, insists the young Bears are "a better team than the one that played the Cardinals last year.

"We're at the point where we're getting ready for the regular season," he says. "The team that we bring will be a difficult one to cut down to 43 players."

Pardee's prediction for a Chicago resurgence, with the exception of lapses the team suffered last week on offense, would seem to be accurate.

Then, however, a young offensive line permitted Bears quarterbacks to be sacked six times during a 14-7 loss to the Cleveland Browns that dropped the team's record to 3-2.

"We played three quarters of terrible football," Pardee lamented following the setback. "If there's a quota on how many bad quarters we can play, we've probably used them up by now."

If Chicago has looked erratic at times, however, St. Louis has achieved a dubious distinction of consistency—playing four games and losing all four with a sputtering attack.

"Our offense needs to get sharp and the Bears have the offense to make it tough," says Cards Coach Don Coryell. "We now have to worry about getting our No. 1 units ready instead of getting everybody experience."

Coryell's plan for St. Louis includes leaving Jim Hart at quarterback most of the way and also calling on running backs Jim Otis and Terry Metcalf for more service.

Hart has completed 26 of 53 passes for 250 yards, suffering three interceptions. Combined, Metcalf and Otis have rushed for 108 yards and scored one of only three Cards touchdowns.

Part of the reason for Pardee's optimism with Chicago, which finished with a 7-7 record in 1976, is a maturing offensive line which lists Ted Albrecht, the team's top draft choice, at right guard.

Favorites win easily as U.S. Open continues

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Virginia Wade turned away the adventuring Renee Richards.

Chris Evert politely thrashed her first-round opponent.

And the two top male seeds, Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors, flicked away their rivals like pieces of dust, despite injuries that delayed their first appearances.

Dr. Richards, the 43-year-old transsexual who went to court for the right to play here, got her chance Thursday, but lost to the Wimbledon champion 6-1, 6-4. The second set gave cause for alarm as Dr. Richards took the fourth and fifth games before Ms. Wade regained her service.

Miss Evert disposed of Sharon Walsh of Mill Valley, Calif., 6-0, 6-1, and looked as though she were doing little more than a light workout in the 90-degree muggy air.

Top-seeded Borg overcame an aching shoulder to eliminate Trey Waltke of St. Louis; and defending champion Connors, whose back had ailed him for several days, set aside Jasjit Singh of Grossinger, N.Y., 6-2, 6-0.

Borg, Connors and Miss Evert faced second-round opponents today. Borg was to meet John James of Australia, while Connors plays Bob Lutz of San Clemente, Calif., tonight. Miss Evert was to battle Pam Whytcross of Australia.

Dr. Richards clearly was nervous as Ms. Wade bounced about the court accurately returning and delivering piercing volleys.

But she was smiling and dignified after the match as she said, "I can't think of losing 6-1, 6-4 as a victory of any kind, moral or otherwise. But it was certainly a big experience for me."

"I'm in very good condition," she said. "But it's not all physical; it's partially mental. And nervous exhaustion can take its toll physically just the way running from side to side does during a match."

Dr. Richards has had an emotionally torturing year since she underwent an operation to change her sex. The Open is the first major tournament she has been allowed to enter as a woman. A state Supreme Court judge said the chromosome tests required of her before were discriminatory.

Miss Evert, starting her first major tournament since losing startlingly to Ms. Wade in the Wimbledon semifinals, was frank about her feeling that the Open will be essential to maintaining her dominance in the women's field.

"It means a lot to me," she said. "I'm really psyched for this. Ever since the day I lost Wimbledon, I've been looking forward to coming here."

Borg and Connors came to their matches confidently and had no trouble passing their opponents. But each took a different view of what their injuries might mean to their chances in the Open.

The cautious 20-year-old Swede said there was no way he would risk seriously injuring himself for the sake of a shot at the Open title. "I know

Stan Hall moved from Sikeston last spring before he could collect his prize of a steak for having the highest percentage right in the weekly prediction poll of the Daily Standard Sports Staff. Of course, maybe Stan figured six months was long enough to wait.

Our dynamic trio of Charlie (Chief) Francis, Dale (Forb) Forbis and Mike (Whale) Marsh will again start the pursuit of that elusive (mythical?) steak with the opening of the 1977 gridiron season.

And, you know what? They will be tied after this week. They all three agree on the winners of all eight games scheduled for the Friday. Are three perfect weeks at once possible? Don't count on it.

CAPE CENTRAL AT DE SOTO -- Cape coach Dutch Meyer has his team on the road back and the smaller school at DeSoto won't slow the Tigers down. The Bengal schedule doesn't get real tough until the third game with Paducah Tilghman. This should help a young, developing team...

Archibald goes to Braves for Johnson, pick

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — Nate "Tiny" Archibald, who in 1972-73 became the only player to lead the National Basketball Association in scoring and assists in the same season, has been traded by the Nets to the Buffalo Braves.

The 6-foot-1 Archibald, a guard, played in just 34 games for the Nets last season. He missed the Nets' final 48 games due to a broken foot and was dealt to Buffalo Thursday for center George Johnson and a first-round choice in the 1979 draft.

Archibald had come to the Nets prior to last season in a deal with the Kansas City Kings in exchange for guard Brian Taylor, center Jim Eakins and two No. 1 draft choices. Before his injury, Archibald averaged 20.5 points and had 254 assists.

Teal season nears

Missouri's first duck season this year will be a special teal hunt Sept. 10-18, with a daily limit of four and possession limit of eight teal, regardless of species (bluewing, greenwing or cinnamon). The Department of Conservation cautions hunters that only teal are legal and that they should be very sure of their identification before shooting.

Missouri Fishing Report

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Fiishing success across the state is mostly fair, with a few areas reporting good fishing, according to the Missouri Conservation Department.

In its weekly fishing report the department said some northern streams were up and muddy, but fishable.

Water tempreatures have cooled slightly, averaging in the upper 70s, the department said.

Streams

Grand—Upper muddy and high with fishing fair; lower muddy and high with fishing poor.

Chariton—High and muddy, with poor fishing.

Mississippi—Upper dingy and normal with catfish and nongame fish good; middle no report; lower muddy, jugging fair.

Missouri—Upper muddy and high with fishing poor; middle muddy and high with fishing poor; lower muddy and high with flathead good on trotlines.

Salt—Muddy and normal to low; fishing fair.

Pomme de Terre—Upper dingy and normal, all species fair; lower dingy, all species fair.

Osage—Above the lake low, with catfish and carp good and all other fishing fair; below Bagnell Dam dingy and low, catfish and crappie fair to good.

Gasconade—Normal with bass fair to good.

Big Niangua—Clear and low, all species fair.

Meramec—Upper clear with lower portion dingy, bass and catfish on trotlines; fair in upper portion; fishing poor below Bourbeause.

Big River—Dingy and normal with catfish fair on trotlines.

Big Piney—Low with fishing fair.

Current—Clear and normal with fishing fair.

Indians battle Murray State in Saturday night grid opener

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Controlling the line of scrimmage and being quicker than the opponent will be the key to victory, according to Southeast Missouri State University head football coach Jim Lohr, whose Indians will take on Murray State University here at 8 p.m. Saturday.

"It sounds like the old standard line, but they are just a real good team and we have to be mistake-free Saturday," the head coach said.

On Wednesday before the opener, Lohr was still undecided on his starting quarterback. Don Backfisch, a senior from Dexter, and Phil Miller, a senior from Wichita, Kan., was vying for the position.

Backfisch, who drew the majority of playing time last season, completed 80 passes in 184 attempts for 1076 yards and 11 touchdowns in 1976.

Miller, who was injured the early part of last season, completed 28 passes on 64 attempts for 322 yards a year ago.

Lohr emphasized that many of the Indians who will take the field Saturday night are being tested for the first time in game situations.

"Some of the strong points we've seen in practice may turn out to be weaknesses once we get in a game," the coach said.

Such is the case of the Indians' young receivers. Of the top four receivers of a year ago, only one, David Gross, returns. The others were lost via graduation.

Gross, a junior from Cape Girardeau, led the team in touchdown receptions last year with four and racked up 227 yards on 19 catches.

Filling the shoes of Dan Wieser, who Lohr considered "our best defensive player" last year, will be Jerry Dement, a junior from Sikeston.

Named All-MIAA safety last season, Wieser, who had a year of eligibility left, signed a professional baseball contract this summer with the Kansas City Royals.

Dement may be a key figure in the contest Saturday night because Murray State has a fine passing attack, Lohr said.

Mike Dickens, a junior quarterback from Evansville, Ind., will direct the Thoroughbreds' offense. Dickens completed 60 of 158 passes last year for a total of 659 yards and three touchdowns.

Murray State also has four top receivers returning from last year's squad.

Tight end David Thomas, a junior from Covington, Tenn., and wide receivers Garry Brumm, a senior from Chicago, Ill., Jeff Braaten, a junior from Radcliff, Ky., and Larry Foxwell, a senior from Cambridge, Md., combined for 59 catches for 719 yards last fall.

Asked about Indian kicker Mike Wood, who scored the Tribe's only points against Murray State in last year's 14-3 loss, Lohr replied, "Mike makes a difference in every game we play."

Wood, a senior from Kirkwood, needs four field goals to break the NCAA record for most field goals kicked in a college career.

SEMO State will be without the service of senior nose guard Tom McClanahan in the opener. McClanahan is suffering from a pulled hamstring muscle sustained in an early practice.

KSIM to carry SeMo broadcasts

CAPE GIRARDEAU – Southeast Missouri State University football fans will have more opportunity than ever this fall to follow their team.

That's because the university has started a football network, which will beam the play-by-play of both home and away Indian football games to five stations spotted in nearly all parts of Southeast Missouri State's service area.

Affiliated with the network in its inaugural year will be KRCU-FM in Cape Girardeau, KSIM in Sikeston, KTJJ-FM in Farmington, KTMO-FM in Kennett, and KPBM-FM in Poplar Bluff.

Jim Smith of Jackson will handle the play-by-play announcing while the color commentator will be Lon Wilke, also of Jackson. Both men are donating their services. Smith has previously done play-by-play for several stations. Wilke, a former football coach at Cape Girardeau Central High School, was a color man last season.

Smith and Wilke will begin the broadcast of each game 15 minutes before the kickoff, starting Saturday night at 7:45 p.m. The Indians play Murray, Ky., State University at 8 at Houck Stadium.

Most of the network stations will also carry the pre-recorded Jim Lohr Football Program just prior to picking up the live broadcast. Lohr is head football coach at Southeast Missouri State.

Two other Cape Girardeau radio stations, KFVS and KGMO, will continue to originate broadcasts of all Southeast Missouri State football games, as they have done in the past.

Bluff favorites in North

POPLAR BLUFF -- Veteran head coach Tom Telle doesn't sound like a man whose peers have made him the odds-on choice for the 1977 Northern Division title. But the memory of outstanding veterans since departed like David Webb, Vic Ortega and Mark Harrell make the Poplar Bluff leader dubious about a squad that numbers four returning defensive starters and seven offensive starters.

"I don't see one team dominating like last year," pointed out the Mule coach. Telle sees the Semo North as a balanced conference this year, with the Cape Central Tigers a darkhorse team to watch.

Telle expanded on his team, "Our calibre of individuals will not be as great, but the team as a whole will be better."

A year ago the Mules carved out a sparkling 8-1-1 record. They met with Sikeston in a November classic "battle of the unbeatens" and were just a 14-7 score away from the Missouri State Class 4-A Playoffs and the conference title. This year Poplar Bluff is making plans to go all the way, discounting Telle's previously noted comments about his team's chances.

"We need a ballgame," Telle noted recently. "We can't tell (how good the team is) until we play someone."

The first test for Poplar Bluff will be Arkansas for Jonesboro. Last year the Jonesboro outfit tied PBHS 6-6 for the only other blemish on the Mule record.

The fleet webb graduated with nearly a thousand yards on the ground last year, despite sitting out four games while suspended. Bill Hays, a parttimer a year ago, gained 260 yards in limited action, averaging 4.9 yards per try. Sean Moore will lend power to the offense from the fullback spot, a position he manned during the last half of last year.

Quarterback Jim Bidewell was the Northern Division's most efficient passer as a junior, hitting over 53 percent of his tosses last year. He will have receivers Paul Roberts and Harvey Johnson to throw to.

Poplar Bluff should present adequate size on both the offensive and defensive line, averaging near 180 pounds on both sides. Defensive tackle Brett Matthews, a 6-0, 230-pound senior, was an all-conference performer in 1976 and should spearhead a solid defensive unit. Matthews will have help from defensive end Phil Coast and defensive backs Jim Moser and Randy Persons.

"Our line should be better," warned Telle, a coach at a school long known for its line talent. "But we lack one or two outstanding players."

Poplar Bluff may not have the individual stars this year, but, on paper, they figure to be the team to beat in the Semo North title fight.

Davis may start against USC

COLUMBIA, MO -- As Mizzou moved into its final preparations for Southern California, the Tigers found a backup quarterback -- but may have lost a starting tailback for that 1977 opener on Faurot Field.

Phil Bradley, 174-pound freshman from Macomb, Ill., claimed the No. 2 quarterback spot behind senior Pete Woods, after two outstanding scrimmage performances. Listed at No.3 quarterback was another freshman, Jay Jeffrey, 170-pounder from Overland Park, Ks.

A dubious starter, though, was Dean Leibson -- 196-pound tailback from Corning, N.Y. He had a slight shoulder separation that was not expected to be fully healed for possibly two weeks. Earl Gant, 206-pound junior from Peoria, Ill., currently is running with the first-team backfield.

Leibson was the team's No. 3 rusher last season with a 5.1 yard average. Gant, used sparingly, finished with a 6.4 yard average -- and had his best single-game against Oklahoma's Sooners.

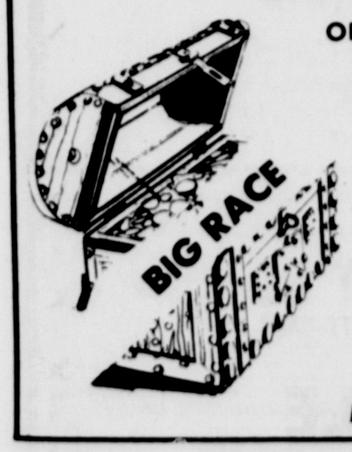

Missouri's No. 1 backfield also has Annise Davis, rugged senior, at fullback ahead of last year's incumbent, Rich Dansdill. Davis, a hard-nosed 220-pounder, impressed as a ball-carrier and blocker last Saturday. Dansdill, a 238-pound junior, wasn't suited up for that tiff and lost ground by default. The hefty Iowan was the Tigers No. 2 rusher as a sophomore with a 5.4 yard average.

Joe Stewart, the Big Eight's premier receiver, again will be at slotback to round out the backfield. Stewart, WR Leo Lewis, TE Kellen Winslow and Gant were MU's top four pass-catchers last season.

Lamont Downer's role as backup to either Lewis or Stewart is uncertain for the Southern Cal opener. The slender junior has been troubled with a lingering ankle problem -- while No. 2 slotback Charlie Burge is definitely out with a sprained ligament in the knee.

These injuries prompted Onofrio to move freshman Cecil Holloway from quarterback this week to the split end position he played as a high school junior. The 180-pound Holloway has :09.8 speed in the 100.

Archibald goes to Braves for Johnson, pick

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — Nate "Tiny" Archibald, who in 1972-73 became the only player to lead the National Basketball Association in scoring and assists in the same season, has been traded by the Nets to the Buffalo Braves.

The 6-foot-1 Archibald, a guard, played in just 34 games for the Nets last season. He missed the Nets' final 48 games due to a broken foot and was dealt to Buffalo Thursday for center George Johnson and a first-round choice in the 1979 draft.

Archibald had come to the Nets prior to last season in a deal with the Kansas City Kings in exchange for guard Brian Taylor, center Jim Eakins and two No. 1 draft choices. Before his injury, Archibald averaged 20.5 points and had 254 assists.

Teal season nears

Missouri's first duck season this year will be a special teal hunt Sept. 10-18, with a daily limit of four and possession limit of eight teal, regardless of species (bluewing, greenwing or cinnamon). The Department of Conservation cautions hunters that only teal are legal and that they should be very sure of their identification before shooting.

people expect me to win," he said, "but I'm not going to hurt myself just because the No. 1 ranking is at stake.

"It's important to take care of myself."

Borg's streaking serve was considerably slowed Thursday.

But Connors was playing at full strength and was adamant that he wouldn't change his style to accomodate his chronic back problem, apparently caused by a curvature of the spine.

"Why change a winning thing?" he shrugged. "I can't change my strokes just because my back is hurting ... I've still got to go out and do it."

Connors won here last year but missed the first seeding after Borg passed him in the computer rankings a week ago.

It seems indeed that a battle is on for No. 1, and fourth-seeded Guillermo Vilas, with 40 consecutive clay-court victories to his credit, plays again tonight against Gene Mayer of Mendham, N.J.

In other matches Thursday, No. 3 Brian Gottfried of Lauderhill, Fla., beat Van Wintisky from the same town 6-3, 6-3; No. 5 Manuel Orantes of Spain zoomed past Bill Maze of Carmel, Calif., 6-1, 6-0; No. 9 Eddie Dibbs of North Miami Beach, Fla., defeated Argentine Lito Alavarez 6-4, 6-3; No. 10 Dick Stockton of Carrolton, Tex., beat George Amaya of Clinton, S.C., 7-5, 6-2; No. 15 Wojtek Fibak of Poland trounced Ross Case of Australia 6-2, 6-2, and No. 16 Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., downed Dick Bohrnstedt of Redlands, Calif., 7-6, 6-2.

In night matches, pint-size Tracy Austin overcame first-set jitters to trounce Heidi Eisterlehner of Germany 3-6, 6-3, 6-1. The pig-tailed wonder who wowed Wimbledon hardly seemed large enough to deliver the mighty strokes that kept her 27-year-old opponent all over the court.

No. 8 seed Vitas Gerulaitis, who's been practicing daily with the other top players, overcame Patrice Dominguez 6-2,6-0 and commented later on his chances as a dark horse for the Open title.

"Very dark," he laughed. 'Lights out."

Dantley traded to Pacers for Knight

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Adrian Dantley's physical strength and contract problems with Billy Knight were key factors in the Indiana Pacers' decision to send Knight to Buffalo as part of a two-for-one deal, said Pacers' Coach Bobby Leonard in announcing the deal.

"I definitely believe we came out best," Leonard said Thursday after bringing Dantley, the National Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year last season, and Mike Bantom here in exchange for the NBA's No. 2 scorer in 1976-77.

"We received two quality players who can start for us and any time you can get two starters for one, I figure you've improved your team," said Leonard.

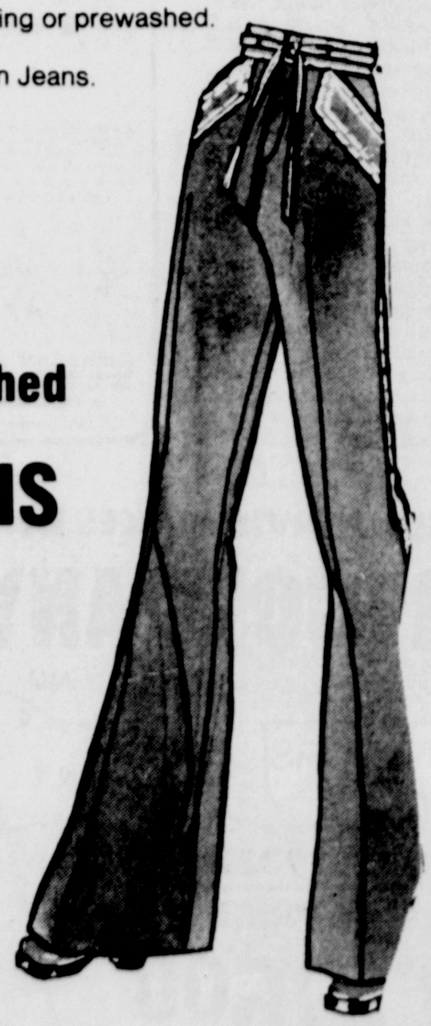

The deal for Knight was one of two announced by the Braves, who acquired Nate Archibald from the New York Nets for center George Johnson and the Braves' top draft pick in 1979.

"These deals give us more speed and outside scoring," said Buffalo team president John Y. Brown.

people expect me to win," he said, "but I'm not going to hurt myself just because the No. 1 ranking is at stake.

"It's important to take care of myself."

Borg's streaking serve was considerably slowed Thursday.

But Connors was playing at full strength and was adamant that he wouldn't change his style to accomodate his chronic back problem, apparently caused by a curvature of the spine.

"Why change a winning thing?" he shrugged. "I can't change my strokes just because my back is hurting ... I've still got to go out and do it."

Connors won here last year but missed the first seeding after Borg passed him in the computer rankings a week ago.

It seems indeed that a battle is on for No. 1, and fourth-seeded Guillermo Vilas, with 40 consecutive clay-court victories to his credit, plays again tonight against Gene Mayer of Mendham, N.J.

In other matches Thursday, No. 3 Brian Gottfried of Lauderhill, Fla., beat Van Wintisky from the same town 6-3, 6-3; No. 5 Manuel Orantes of Spain zoomed past Bill Maze of Carmel, Calif., 6-1, 6-0; No. 9 Eddie Dibbs of North Miami Beach, Fla., defeated Argentine Lito Alavarez 6-4, 6-3; No. 10 Dick Stockton of Carrolton, Tex., beat George Amaya of Clinton, S.C., 7-5, 6-2; No. 15 Wojtek Fibak of Poland trounced Ross Case of Australia 6-2, 6-2, and No. 16 Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., downed Dick Bohrnstedt of Redlands, Calif., 7-6, 6-2.

In night matches, pint-size Tracy Austin overcame first-set jitters to trounce Heidi Eisterlehner of Germany 3-6, 6-3, 6-1. The pig-tailed wonder who wowed Wimbledon hardly seemed large enough to deliver the mighty strokes that kept her 27-year-old opponent all over the court.

No. 8 seed Vitas Gerulaitis, who's been practicing daily with the other top players, overcame Patrice Dominguez 6-2,6-0 and commented later on his chances as a dark horse for the Open title.

"Very dark," he laughed. 'Lights out."

Christian Citizenship Rally set next Friday

Myron W. Clark, popular platform personality from Rochester, Minn., will be the featured speaker at a Missouri Bootheel Christian Citizenship Rally next Friday. The 7:30 p.m. rally, sponsored jointly by the Christian Civic Foundation and the Sikeston Ministerial Alliance, will be held in the auditorium at First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North.

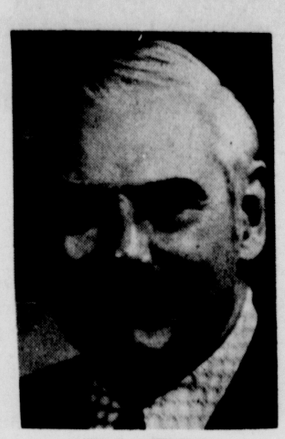

Clark, who has been compared with such synamic speakers as Paul Harvey and Earl Nightengale, will talk on the subject, "Building Responsible Americans." His presentation will feature color slides accompanied by a stereo sound track.

The Rev. Clyde Riddle, pastor of First Baptist Church and president of the Sikeston Ministerial Alliance, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Gene Hinze, music director of First Church of the Nazarene in Sikeston, will be in charge of the music. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Larry Nickell, organist of First United Methodist Church, and Mrs. Rebecca Couch, music director of Wesley United Methodist Church. Musical numbers will be presented by the Tolbert Sisters of Trinity Chapel Church of God in Sikeston and the Miner Baptist Church youth choir.

Other local persons appearing on the program will be the Rev. Dr. Arthur C. Fulbright, minister of First United Methodist Church; the Rev. Loren Wooten, pastor of First Assembly of God Church; the Rev. William L. Sharkey, vicar of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; the Rev. Ralph Buckley, pastor of Fellowship Baptist Church; and state Rep. C.F. Cline, D-Essex.

Members of the rally planning committee include: the Rev. Dr. Wade Paris, pastor of Murray Lane Baptist Church; the Rev. Kenneth Sievers, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church; the Rev. Grady Etheridge, pastor of Miner Baptist Church; Dr. Curt Scarborough, publisher for Christain Civic Foundation; and the Rev. Mr. Wooten.

During the program, a brief report on the work of the Christian Civic Foundation will be given. The foundation wll be represented by the Rev. Dr. Max W. Morgan, president of CCF and pastor of Delmar Baptist Church in St. Louis. Other foundation staff members appearing on the program will be the Rev. Dr. Cleve. R. Horne, executive director; Mr. John King, director of education; and Mrs. Eva Pratt, director of citizenship.

Christian Civic Foundation serves as a channel of cooperation for Christian people, their churches, denominations and other concerned agencies, for projecting a multicultural, balanced, effective solution to America's alcohol-drug-tobacco obsession. The foundation also fucusses on other social problems, such as legalized gambling.

CCF is controlled by a board of directors elected or appointed from 16 cooperating denominations in the state of Missouri.

CCF believes two things are essential if society is to reduce significantly the suffering and death that results from its drinking, drug-using, smoking obsession: education and legislation.

Since 1966, CCF has successfully pioneered drug education with youth in hundreds of Missouri public schools. Educational programs, developed and financed by CCF, are offered through DATE, Inc. (Drug-Alcohol-Tobacco-Education).

During 1977-78, the CCF educational thrust will include:

1. Extending its educational programs to include the total church and community by developing materials for church-community programs, by using the media to project the CCF philosophy, and by enlisting and training leadership at grassroots levels.

2. Establishing a School of Christian Social Studies at The Lindenwood Colleges in St. Charles to teach a philosophy of social concern within the framework of Christian ethics. The opening session of the school, scheduled for Nov. 28-30, will offer a preventive education workshop, a counseling and treatment clinic and a citizenship seminar.

CCF, unable as a tax-exempt organization to directly involve itself in legislative action, has established a separate organization: PACE (Political Action for a Christian Environment), formerly called Citizen Impact. This grassroots movement of Christian people espouses the same ideals and principles as CCF, but it is financed independently.

During 1977-78, the CCF legislative thrust will include:

1. Mobilizing Christian people for an effective legislative influence (through PACE).

2. Continuing its present active lobbying involvement (through PACE) in the legalized gambling issue and other social problems of concern to its Christian constituency.

3. Initiating (through PACE) effective legislative controls for alcohol, drugs and tobacco.

"The situation is impossible," many people exclaim. "Man is incurably a drug-user and a gambler. There's just no hope!"

But Christian Civic Foundation says, "There is a way out. Educate! Legislate! People make more intelligent decisions based on scientific knowledge and responsible laws."

Beulah Landers to sing Sunday

The Beulah Landers, a gospel-singing quartet from Oklahoma City, will sing in both the morning and evening services Sunday at the Canalou Assembly of God Church. The quartet is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Clete Bewley, left, and Mr. and Mrs. David Sherril. Also, the Rev. Jerry Slabaugh of Oklahoma City will preach in both services, and a picnic-style lunch will be served at noon.

Old McKendree Day to display restored chapel

JACKSON – Old McKendree Chapel, believed to be the oldest Methodist Church and oldest Protestant church west of the Mississippi River, has been restored to its original condition of more than 150 years ago and will be on display for the 44th annual Old McKendree Day Service at 3 p.m. Sept. 11.

The restoration celebration service, sponsored by the McKendree Chapel Memorial Association, also will be a fall rally day for the churches in the Cape Girardeau-Farmington United Methodist Church District.

The speaker for the service will be the well-known Missouri church historian, the Rev. Dr. George Heslar, a former superintendent of the Cape Girardeau-Farmington District and former pastor of Grace United Methodist Church in Cape Girardeau.

Following the worship service and a picnic on the grounds, Dust and Ashes, a popular singing group from Nashville, will present a concert.

Designation as one of the 10 "major Methodist shrines of America (and only one west of the Mississippi)" was bestowed upon McKendree Chapel by the General Conference of the Methodist Church in 1960.

It all started nearly 170 years ago, shortly after Missouri ahd become a territory of the United States through the Louisiana Purchase. Methodism in America was less than 20 years old when two Methodist missionaries, the Rev. John Clark and the Rev. Jesse Walker, came into southeast Missouri. Camp meetings were held among the settlers in the summer months and eventually a congregation was formed.

Some reports give the date of formation as 1806; however, it's generally believed the congregation, which eventually became known as McKendree Church, was formed in July 1809, following a camp meeting conducted by the Rev. Samuael Parker, presiding elder of the district, and the Rev. Thomas Wright, pastor of the circuit. The charter membership consisted of two couples and five men, apparently single or widowed.

It is known for sure that the site of those original camp meetings is where Old McKendree Chapel stands today. The beautiful grove of oak and maple trees still produces a sense of reverence and peace. And with a small spring flowing by, it obviously was an ideal spot. As one early writer put it, "a camp ground hallowed by the recollection of happy hundreds..." It is located eight miles west of Cape Girardeau and two miles east of Jackson, not far from Interstate 55.

The first of the camp meetings is believed to have taken place in 1806. The first one of record was held in 1809 and one or more were held each year thereafter for about 50 years. Reportedly, the meetings attracted large crowds, with people coming from far and wide to attend.

Of that permanent congregation believed to have been organized in 1809, not much is known. Most likely meetings were held in the homes, with some itinerant preacher conducting them.

Apparently the congregation grew and a chapel was erected in 1819 on the campsite grounds with the two acres of the original church site donated by one William Williams, who farmed in the area. At the time, Missouri was largely a wilderness only small settlements scattered here and there.

Accounts of the chapel's construction note that it was made from "great hewn poplar logs, some more than 30 inches in diameter." Nails were nonexistent on the frontier, and ceiling rafters were pinned together with wooden pegs. The logs were held in place using a "dovetailing" technique. The cement-like mixture used as mortar between the logs is believed to have been a mixture of lime, mud, straw and hair.

Little if any cash was expended in the building's construction. The materials, and probably most of the labor, were donated by church members. The workmen apparently were skilled, as the building's durability attests.

In addition to the hewing of the immense yellow poplar logs, the construction also included a sawed plank floor, windows and window sashes and a large fireplace.

No one knows why or by whom the chapel was named McKendree, with explanations given only as conjectures. Most likely it was named for Bishop William McKendree, the first American-born bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the country.

Bishop McKendree visited the Missouri territory around 1810, and in later years as well. He is known to have been at the chapel site only onetime, in 1818, and may have given the impulse to build it.

Some historians note that Old McKendree was not the first finished Methodist meeting house in Missouri. That distinction probably belongs to a building construction in 1818 known as Shiloh in the small town of Caledonia, located in Washington County about 100 miles south of St. Louis. It, however, is no longer standing.

Apparently Old McKendree was built during the summer of 1819, for it is known to have been completed prior to Sept. 14. This is the date on which the first known service was conducted—the first session of the Missouri Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to be held west of the Mississippi River.

Regular, continuous services were held in the chapel for a number of years. One account notes that regular services "were discontinued about 1890 due to changes in population and rural life." Another historian puts the discontinuation date slightly later, around 1902. There is no exact way of knowing what happened to the congregation other than it gradually dwindled away. Apparently they did not start another church elsewhere.

The first armored car robbery took place on March 11, 1927. The Flathead Gang dynamited the vehicle on a road about seven miles from Pittsburgh and made off with more than $100,000 cash.

Graham slated to visit Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — A team of aides is here preparing for a week-long visit by Billy Graham, the fiery revivalist whose early preaching stressed the evils of Communist atheism.

The Rev. Mr. Graham's 30-odd years of global crusading have taken him to at least 65 countries on every continent. But so far, Yugoslavia is the only Communist-ruled country he has visited.

The Rev. Mr. Graham's thinking is "obviously on an American wave-length, predestined by the American environment," said his host, Sandor Palotay, president of the Council of Free Churches of Hungary.

But seeing the life of believers in Hungary, a country "pervaded by socialist humanity," will undoubtedly expand Graham's perspective, Palotay said. He called the week-long tour "very significant."

The American preacher is scheduled to arrive Saturday and will officiate at services Sunday in Budapest's Central Baptist Chapel before an expected congregation of thousands.

He will be welcomed by Dr. Tibor Bartha, a Calvinist bishop who is head of the Ecumenical Council of Hungarian Churches, and by Alexander Bichkov of the Soviet Union, general secretary of the World Baptist Federation.

Later in the week the 59-year-old evangelist, an ordained Baptist minister, is to preach in Baptist churches in Budapest and in the provincial towns of Debrecen and Pecs. He will meet other church dignitaries and ranking government officials, Palotay said.

Graham aides arrived Sunday to begin preparations for the visit.

As a young preacher in the American South, the Rev. Mr. Graham gained fame as a staunch anti-Communist. But in recent years he has not been as virulent as some American evangelists in his denunciations of Communist atheism, although he has maintained his views.

The Rev. Mr. Graham has held some "misconceptions" on East-West issues, Palotay said, but "his integrity and sincere conviction stand beyond doubt." The preaching and goodwill mission to Hungary will be "a projection of the Helsinki spirit to a religious field," he said.

1st Methodist returning to single service

After meeting for two services during the summer months, First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North, will return to its regular single-worship service schedule at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, the Rev. Dr. Arthur C. Fulbright, pastor, has announced.

Through the summer the church featured an 8:30 a.m. worship service in addition to the 10:45 service.

Death held no fear for Ethel Waters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Death was not fearsome to Ethel Waters, an actress and singer who became the grand lady of gospel and blues.

"I'm not afraid to die, honey," she said in one of her last interviews. "In fact, I'm kinda looking forward to it ... I know that the Lord has his arms wrapped around this big, fat sparrow."

Miss Waters, 80, died Thursday at a friend's home after a lengthy illness. She had suffered from high blood pressure, diabetes and a weak heart.

Reared in a dingy Philadelphia suburb, Miss Waters reached the heights of show business during her 50-year career as a vaudeville singer, Broadway star, and movie and television actress. In 1949, she was nominated for an Academy Award as best actress for her part in "Pinky."

Shirley Booth won the award that year for "Come Back Little Sheba." In 1959, Miss Waters attended a Billy Graham revival meeting and began a new career as a gospel singer, joining his crusades and recording several gospel albums.

"I sing because I'm happy, I sing because I'm free. His eye is on the sparrow, and I know He watches me."

Memorial awards evolve from son's penitence for arrogance

NEW YORK (AP) — He prized individual conscience and the rights of varied denominations, but never picked any one of them to join. "Don't knock any religion," he would say. "We don't know that they're wrong."

One night, he sat up unusually late reading the Bible which he studied regularly. Next day, at age 75, big, taciturn Jim Merrell, a crack straw boss of railroad bridge-building crews in Alabama for 42 years, died of a heart attack.

His daughter, Pattie, put in a long-distance telephone call to Fort Lee, Va. In tears, she told her brother, then in the Army, "I've got some bad news."

"I know," he said. He had sensed it without being told.

That was in 1962. The son, Jesse H. Merrell, now 38, who has since become head of Merrell Enterprises of Washington, a professional writing service, and who in honor of his father set up the Jim Merrell Religious Liberty Memorial awards of $1,000 each annually for the best news article and cartoon on religious liberty, says of that day in 1962:

"Riding home on the train that night from Petersburg, Va., to Birmingham, Ala., (near the family's home in Shelby, Ala.) was the longest night of my life. All my unpardonable conduct toward Daddy was graphically painted before me on a broad panorama of bitterly painful guilt."

The recollections are part of a short talk Merrell gives frequently to church and civic groups about his father — and about an unspoken word the son wishes he had spoken — "love."

In the talk, he relates his father's hard-working life as a bridge-builder, his scanty education, yet quiet wisdom, tolerant faith and timber-laying skill, his rearing in a draughty log cabin on a Shelby County, Ala., farm homesteaded by his grandfather in early U.S. history.

East Prairie church plans homecoming

EAST PRAIRIE – Sunday will be Homecoming Day at First General Baptist Church, the Rev. Bob Williams, pastor, has announced.

In addition to the regular services, the all-day event will include dinner on the grounds, an afternoon singing program and baptizing during the evening service.

Featured in the singing program will be the Calvary Crusaders from Henderson, Ky.

WAF meeting slated

The Sikeston Women's Aglow Fellowship will meet from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Security Federal Savings & Loan Association community room, 820 N. Main St.

The guest speaker will be the Rev. Paul Walker, pastor of First Christian Church, 1006 N. Main St., and one of the fellowship's advisors.

The meeting is open to women of all faiths, and nursery care will be available for younger children.

No. 15 Jesus Heals the Sick

Despite the scoffing and criticism of the religious leaders, Jesus continued to perform his miracles of healing. Upon his return to Capernaum, he healed a paralyzed man who had been brought to him on a stretcher. One of the local religious leaders then came to Jesus, begging him to come to his home to bring his daughter back to life. Jesus and his disciples arose to follow him to his home.

Christian Citizenship Rally set next Friday

Myron W. Clark, popular platform personality from Rochester, Minn., will be the featured speaker at a Missouri Bootheel Christian Citizenship Rally next Friday. The 7:30 p.m. rally, sponsored jointly by the Christian Civic Foundation and the Sikeston Ministerial Alliance, will be held in the auditorium at First United Methodist Church, Highway 61 North.

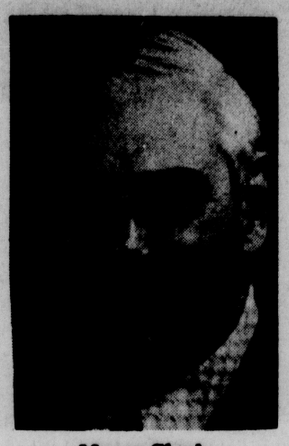

Clark, who has been compared with such synamic speakers as Paul Harvey and Earl Nightengale, will talk on the subject, "Building Responsible Americans." His presentation will feature color slides accompanied by a stereo sound track.

The Rev. Clyde Riddle, pastor of First Baptist Church and president of the Sikeston Ministerial Alliance, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Gene Hinze, music director of First Church of the Nazarene in Sikeston, will be in charge of the music. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Larry Nickell, organist of First United Methodist Church, and Mrs. Rebecca Couch, music director of Wesley United Methodist Church. Musical numbers will be presented by the Tolbert Sisters of Trinity Chapel Church of God in Sikeston and the Miner Baptist Church youth choir.

Other local persons appearing on the program will be the Rev. Dr. Arthur C. Fulbright, minister of First United Methodist Church; the Rev. Loren Wooten, pastor of First Assembly of God Church; the Rev. William L. Sharkey, vicar of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; the Rev. Ralph Buckley, pastor of Fellowship Baptist Church; and state Rep. C.F. Cline, D-Essex.

Members of the rally planning committee include: the Rev. Dr. Wade Paris, pastor of Murray Lane Baptist Church; the Rev. Kenneth Sievers, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church; the Rev. Grady Etheridge, pastor of Miner Baptist Church; Dr. Curt Scarborough, publisher for Christain Civic Foundation; and the Rev. Mr. Wooten.

During the program, a brief report on the work of the Christian Civic Foundation will be given. The foundation wil be represented by the Rev. Dr. Max W. Morgan, president of CCF and pastor of Delmar Baptist Church in St. Louis. Other foundation staff members appearing on the program will be the Rev. Dr. Cleve. R. Horne, executive director; Mr. John King, director of education; and Mrs. Eva Pratt, director of citizenship.

Christian Civic Foundation serves as a channel of cooperation for Christian people, their churches, denominations and other concerned agencies, for projecting a multicultural, balanced, effective solution to America's alcohol-drug-tobacco obsession. The foundation also fucusses on other social problems, such as legalized gambling.

CCF is controlled by a board of directors elected or appointed from 16 cooperating denominations in the state of Missouri.

CCF believes two things are essential if society is to reduce significantly the suffering and death that results from its drinking, drug-using, smoking obsession: education and legislation.

Since 1966, CCF has successfully pioneered drug education with youth in hundreds of Missouri public schools. Educational programs, developed and financed by CCF, are offered through DATE, Inc. (Drug-Alcohol-Tobacco-Education).

During 1977-78, the CCF educational thrust will include:

1. Extending its educational programs to include the total church and community by developing materials for church-community programs, by using the media to project the CCF philosophy, and by enlisting and training leadership at grassroots levels.

2. Establishing a School of Christian Social Studies at The Lindenwood Colleges in St. Charles to teach a philosophy of social concern within the framework of Christian ethics. The opening session of the school, scheduled for Nov. 28-30, will offer a preventive education workshop, a counseling and treatment clinic and a citizenship seminar.

CCF, unable as a tax-exempt organization to directly involve itself in legislative action, has established a separate organization: PACE (Political Action for a Christian Environment), formerly called Citizen Impact. This grassroots movement of Christian people espouses the same ideals and principles as CCF, but it is financed independently.

During 1977-78, the CCF legislative thrust will include:

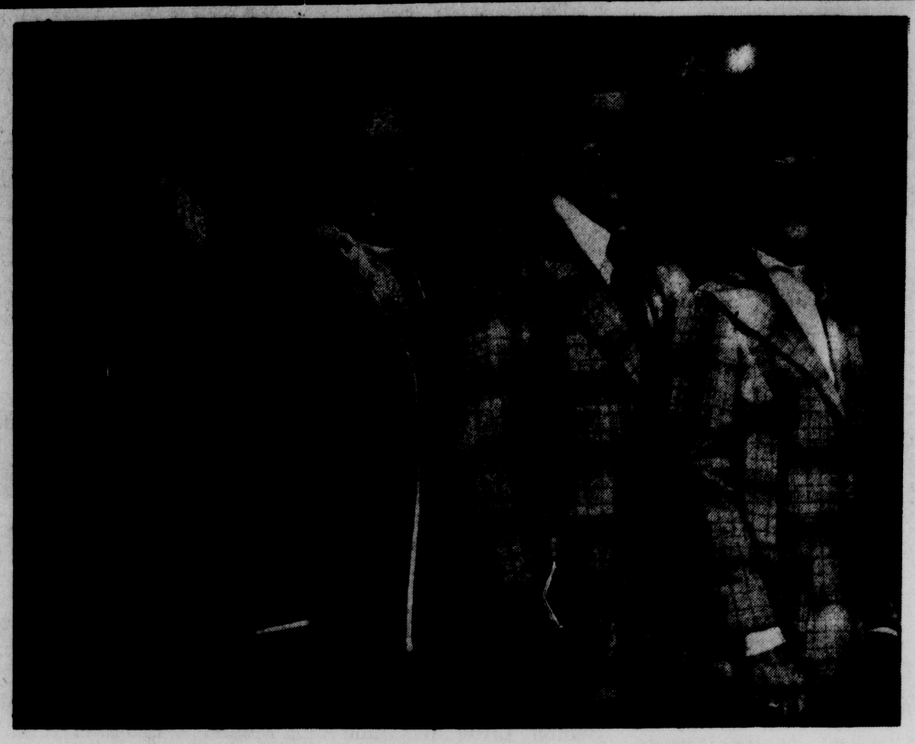

1. Mobilizing Christian people for an effective legislative influence (through PACE).

2. Continuing its present active lobbying involvement (through PACE) in the legalized gambling issue and other social problems of concern to its Christian constituency.

3. Initiating (through PACE) effective legislative controls for alcohol, drugs and tobacco.

"The situation is impossible," many people exclaim. "Man is incurably a drug-user and a gambler. There's just no hope!"

But Christian Civic Foundation says, "There is a way out. Educate! Legislate! People make more intelligent decisions based on scientific knowledge and responsible laws."

Beulah Landers to sing Sunday

Jerry Slabaugh of Oklahoma City will preach in both services, and a picnic-style lunch will be served at noon.

Old McKendree Day to display restored chapel

JACKSON – Old McKendree Chapel, believed to be the oldest Methodist Church and oldest Protestant church west of the Mississippi River, has been restored to its original condition of more than 150 years ago and will be on display for the 44th annual Old McKendree Day Service at 3 p.m. Sept. 11.

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT

1. This notice relates to Community Development Projects proposed within the town of Morley which consist of rehabilitating up to 29 units of sub-standard housing and providing a new fire station and equipment.

2. The town of Morley has found that these projects will have no significant effect on the environment for the following reasons:

a. Housing rehabilitation efforts will not degrade the environment but will serve to beautify the residential sector. Livability and habitability will be upgraded substantially thereby enhancing the general quality of the human environment.

b. A new fire station and fire fighting equipment will serve to increase public safety and reduce the probability of economic loss to all residents.

3. The Applicant has made an Environmental Review Record respecting these projects which is on file at the City Hall, Morley, Missouri. The Environmental Review Record may be examined or copied at the above address between 8:00 AM and 12:00 noon and 1:00 PM nad 5:00 PM Monday's through Friday's.

4. No further environmental review is proposed to be conducted and the town of Morley intends to request the Department of Housing & Urban Development to release funds for the projects.

5. Interested parties may submit comments to the town of Morley until Sept. 19, 1977.

Health department board keeps same tax rate

BENTON -- Warren Manning, administrator of the Scott County Health Department told the board of trustees Tuesday that the attorney general has ruled that the health department is not a political subdivision.

He also reported that about 50 per cent of the department's workload during the month of August was immunization of school-age children to comply with new state requirements.

Manning cited attorney general opinion No. 225, dated Dec. 31, 1974, which rules that county health departments are not political subdivisions. He said this would eliminate the board of trustees from holding a special public hearing on establishing a tax rate for the year.

In July, the board of trustees had tentatively set a public hearing for 3:30 p.m. Aug. 30.

The board of trustees Tuesday agreed to maintain the same tax rate as last year of 10 cents for $100 assessed valuation.

Manning said clinics for this past month in Benton and Sikeston gave a total of 902 immunizations to students to comply with new state requirements.

An additional 90 immunizations were given in Sikeston during the past two weeks, Manning said, to students who had written orders from their doctors

The next immunization clinics, Manning said, would be held on Sept. 12 in Benton and Sept. 13 in Sikeston.

Burlison discusses energy bill

ORAN -- U.S. Rep. Bill D. Burlison Thursday night discussed the President's energy package and the reception it received from the House. Burlison was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Oran Lions Club.

He pointed out that perhaps the most prominent issues were the treatment of gasoline taxes and natural gas deregulation. The gas taxes were deleted from the bill by overwhelming votes. Natural gas price regulation was continued although the price levels were increased and a broader definition for "new" gas was adopted. The reasoning was that greater production would be encouraged by the higher price permitted, while at the same time not letting the price by excessive.

On the gas tax proposal, Burlison observed that there was virtually no constituency for it except the President and the Democratic congressional leadership. Business and labor, the rich and the poor, the rural and the urban, were all united in opposition to the taxes, he said The President and the House Leadership felt that the gas taxes were important segments to a coherent, integrated and effective national energy policy, said Burlison.

Teasdale fires revenue director

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Joseph Teasdale today said state Revenue Director James LePage had been fired.

The governor said LePage had refused to carry out his instruction to replace several personnel in his agency that were appointed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

"We had no other course but his resignation," Teasdale told a hastily called news conference

Teasdale said his action came only after a meeting with LePage for several hours Thursday at which time the governor and the agency chief were unable to agree on the policy matter.

The governor said he had asked LePage to replace the members of the Revenue Department's investigative unit, and LePage had refused.

"What it really boils down to is an honest disagreement...but I'm running the government," the governor told newsmen.

The investigative branch was set up during the Bond administration and was still staffed by Bond people, Teasdale said.

"I directed Jim LePage to replace the investigators from the Bond administration...and he said he couldn't do it," Teasdale said.

The governor said the personnel in question conducted investigations into possible criminal complaints and also helped to set department policies.

"Clearly those are people I want to pick," the governor told newsmen.

Burlison discusses energy bill

ORAN - U.S. Rep. Bill D. Burlison Thursday night discussed the President's energy package and the reception it received from the House. Burlison was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Oran Lions Club.

He pointed out that perhaps the most prominent issues were the treatment of gasoline taxes and natural gas deregulation. The gas taxes were deleted from the bill by overwhelming votes. Natural gas price regulation was continued although the price levels were increased and a broader definition for "new" gas was adopted. The reasoning was that greater production would be encouraged by the higher price permitted, while at the same time not letting the price by excessive.

On the gas tax proposal, Burlison observed that there was virtually no constituency for it except the President and the Democratic congressional leadership. Business and labor, the rich and the poor, the rural and the urban, were all united in opposition to the taxes, he said The President and the House Leadership felt that the gas taxes were important segments to a coherent, integrated and effective national energy policy, said Burlison.

Teasdale fires revenue director

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Joseph Teasdale today said state Revenue Director James LePage had been fired.

The governor said LePage had refused to carry out his instruction to replace several personnel in his agency that were appointed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

"We had no other course but his resignation," Teasdale told a hastily called news conference

Teasdale said his action came only after a meeting with LePage for several hours Thursday at which time the governor and the agency chief were unable to agree on the policy matter.

The governor said he had asked LePage to replace the members of the Revenue Department's investigative unit, and LePage had refused.

"What it really boils down to is an honest disagreement...but I'm running the government," the governor told newsmen.

The investigative branch was set up during the Bond administration and was still staffed by Bond people, Teasdale said.

"I directed Jim LePage to replace the investigators from the Bond administration...and he said he couldn't do it," Teasdale said.

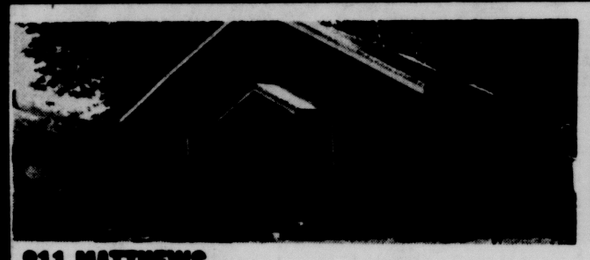

The governor said the personnel in question conducted investigations into possible criminal complaints and also helped to set department policies.

"Clearly those are people I want to pick," the governor told newsmen.

TV networks to open season with 65 series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In addition to all their new specials, the networks also are about ready to start the annual Murine Festival — the new TV season — with 65 new or returning weekly series this month and the next.

And while it may not double your pleasure, double your fun, a check of the latest network schedules shows eight returning and one new series set to begin the 1977-78 season at double their usual length.

Six are situation comedies — CBS's M-A-S-H, Good Times, The Jeffersons and All in the Family, and ABC's Welcome Back, Kotter and Happy Days. They'll all debut with hour-long episodes.

In the field of classical drama, ABC's Starsky and Hutch will start the new season with a two-hour caper, ditto Charlie's Angels (which has a second two-hour show the next week) and NBC's new Oregon Trail.

Two-parters — in which viewers need to return the next week to learn how the stories came out — also figure in ABC's premiering, with four of its shows making two episodes from one yarn this month.

They are the Hardy Boys-Nancy Drew, Six Million Dollar Man, and Family series, and the two-part retirement of Fish from Barney Miller.

And now, for all who keep track of grand openings, we offer the following list of premier dates, as provided by the networks:

SUNDAY — NBC: Walt Disney, Big Event, Sept. 11. CBS: 60 Minutes, Sept. 11; Rhoda, Oct. 2; On Our Own, Oct. 9; All in the Family, Alice and Kojak, all Oct. 2; ABC: Hardy Boys-Nancy Drew and Six Million Dollar Man, Sept. 11.

MONDAY — NBC: Little House on the Prairie, Sept. 12. CBS: Young Dan'l Boone, Betty White and Maude, Sept. 12; Rafferty, Sept. 5. ABC: San Pedro Beach Bums, Sept. 12.

TUESDAY — NBC: Richard Pryor, Sept. 13; Mulligan's Stew and Police Woman, Oct. 25. CBS: Fitzpatricks and M-A-S-H, Sept. 20; One Day at a Time, Sept. 27, and Lou Grant, Sept. 20. ABC: Happy Days, Sept. 13; Laverne and Shirley, Sept. 20, and Three's Company, Soap and Family, all Sept. 13.

WEDNESDAY — NBC: Grizzly Adams, Sept. 28; Oregon Trail and Big Hawaii, Sept. 21. CBS: Good Times, Sept. 21, and Busting Loose, Sept. 28. ABC: Eight is Enough and Charlie's Angels, Sept. 14; Baretta, Sept. 28.

THURSDAY — NBC: Chips, Sept. 15; Man From Atlantis and Rosetti & Ryan, Sept. 22. CBS: The Waltons, Hawaii Five-O and Barnaby Jones, Sept. 15. ABC: Welcome Back, Kotter, Sept. 15; What's Happening, Sept. 22; Barney Miller, Carter Country and Redd Foxx, all Sept. 15.

FRIDAY — NBC: Sanford Arms, Chico and the Man, Rockford Files and Quincy, all Sept. 16. CBS: Wonder Woman and Logan's Run, Sept. 16, and Switch, Sept. 23. ABC: Donnie and Marie, Sept. 23.

SATURDAY — NBC: Bionic Woman, Sept. 10. CBS: Bob Newhart, Sept. 24; We've Got Each Other, Oct. 1; The Jeffersons, Tony Randall and Carol Burnett, all Sept. 24. ABC: Fish, Operation Petticoat and Starsky and Hutch, all Sept. 17; Love Boat, Sept. 24.

Pony to recover from 4-year confinement

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — King, a 10-year-old Shetland pony confined for four years in a nailed-shut stall piled high with manure, will recover completely now that almost a foot-and-a-half of deformed hoof has been removed, veterinarians said today.

Dr. Walter Hilton, who is directing King's treatment, said after evaluating laboratory tests and X rays that "the film showed no growth abnormalities in King's legs, nor any signs of underlying disease."

"King's about the most tenacious pony I've ever seen," Hilton said of the pony that has gained national attention. "He's got an unbelievable will to live and that's probably why he is still around."

Earlier this week, Hilton, and blacksmith Bill McPhee, undertook a three-hour intricate procedure in which they sliced, chipped, and filed away pounds of deformed bone and hoof which had accumulated during the pony's imprisonment.

About three weeks ago, officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals discovered King trapped in the fly-and maggot-infested stall, standing atop a four-foot-high pile of manure in a garage in Plaistow.

The Palamino-colored pony was suffering from the most severe case of the deformity called laminitis the veterinarians said they had ever seen. Its hooves had grown about 18 inches beyond their normal length and they curved toward his knees like the runners on a rocking horse.

In Tuesday's operation, at the University of New Hampshire, the grotesquely curved hooves were carefully whittled back to almost their normal size.

But even as King stepped gingerly on normal hooves for the first time in years, doctors were saying that only X rays would give a clear picture of whether the pony was walking to a new life, or to eventual destruction because of possible hidden bone damage.

Today's optmistic prognosis ruled out the somber alternative.

"One of our biggest problems now," said Hilton, "is making sure they don't kill him with love."

A hand-printed sign in King's stall says "Please leave all apples, carrots and sugar cubes outside."

Since his rescue the 3½-foot-tall pony has become an international celebrity. Hundreds of letters, get-well cards and telephone calls stream in every day. Many of the cards and letters contain money to pay for King's treatment. Others promise a "friendly and caring" home.

King's former owner, Barbara Reed of Plaistow, a 58-year-old widow, is scheduled to appear in court Sept. 13, to face cruelty charges.

Seduction laws ruled outmoded

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Missouri's seduction and breach of promise laws are largely outmoded and unnecessary and may need to be abolished, the Missouri Court of Appeals has stated.

The court reversed a 1975 conviction under the state laws Tuesday on technicalities but took the opportunity to state in its opinion that the General Assembly should examine the laws "to determine whether they are compatible with modern society and whether they should be abolished once and for all — especially as such actions relate to a mature adult woman."

The case in which the opinion was stated reversed a St. Louis County Circuit Court ruling in which Sharon A. Breece was awarded damages after she claimed that Mishka C. Jett had seduced her through a false promise of marriage and converted much of her property to his own use.

"Recent social trends and changing mores of contemporary societies concerning sex and morality and the new-found status of women may well make the action of seduction a remedy of a bygone era" and may be socially unwise, the court said.

The opinion also said that along with new freedoms for women comes responsibility for their actions.

"The woman of today is not the woman of yesterday," the opinion written by Chief Judge Joseph J. Simeone said. "She has a new-found freedom. The modern adult woman is sophisticated and mature; the former notion — that women belong to the weaker sex — has long been abandoned. The modern woman is not easily 'beguiled' and does not easily fall to the 'wiles' of man. Women desire and should be held to a reasonable responsibility."

While the opinion stated its objections to the seduction laws, it noted that it is not in a position to abolish them. The General Assembly must do that, the opinion said.

Get the eyewash ready

TV networks to open season with 65 series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In addition to all their new specials, the networks also are about ready to start the annual Murine Festival — the new TV season — with 65 new or returning weekly series this month and the next.

And while it may not double your pleasure, double your fun, a check of the latest network schedules shows eight returning and one new series set to begin the 1977-78 season at double their usual length.

Six are situation comedies — CBS's M-A-S-H, Good Times, The Jeffersons and All in the Family, and ABC's Welcome Back, Kotter and Happy Days. They'll all debut with hour-long episodes.

In the field of classical drama, ABC's Starsky and Hutch will start the new season with a two-hour caper, ditto Charlie's Angels (which has a second two-hour show the next week) and NBC's new Oregon Trail.

Two-parters — in which viewers need to return the next week to learn how the stories came out — also figure in ABC's premiering, with four of its shows making two episodes from one yarn this month.

They are the Hardy Boys-Nancy Drew, Six Million Dollar Man, and Family series, and the two-part retirement of Fish from Barney Miller.

And now, for all who keep track of grand openings, we offer the following list of premier dates, as provided by the networks:

SUNDAY — NBC: Walt Disney, Big Event, Sept. 11. CBS: 60 Minutes, Sept. 11; Rhoda, Oct. 2; On Our Own, Oct. 9; All in the Family, Alice and Kojak, all Oct. 2; ABC: Hardy Boys-Nancy Drew and Six Million Dollar Man, Sept. 11.

MONDAY — NBC: Little House on the Prairie, Sept. 12. CBS: Young Dan'l Boone, Betty White and Maude, Sept. 12; Rafferty, Sept. 5. ABC: San Pedro Beach Bums, Sept. 12.

TUESDAY — NBC: Richard Pryor, Sept. 13; Mulligan's Stew and Police Woman, Oct. 25. CBS: Fitzpatricks and M-A-S-H, Sept. 20; One Day at a Time, Sept. 27, and Lou Grant, Sept. 20. ABC: Happy Days, Sept. 13; Laverne and Shirley, Sept. 20, and Three's Company, Soap and Family, all Sept. 13.

WEDNESDAY — NBC: Grizzly Adams, Sept. 28; Oregon Trail and Big Hawaii, Sept. 21. CBS: Good Times, Sept. 21, and Busting Loose, Sept. 28. ABC: Eight is Enough and Charlie's Angels, Sept. 14; Baretta, Sept. 28.

THURSDAY — NBC: Chips, Sept. 15; Man From Atlantis and Rosetti & Ryan, Sept. 22. CBS: The Waltons, Hawaii Five-O and Barnaby Jones, Sept. 15. ABC: Welcome Back, Kotter, Sept. 15; What's Happening, Sept. 22; Barney Miller, Carter Country and Redd Foxx, all Sept. 15.

FRIDAY — NBC: Sanford Arms, Chico and the Man, Rockford Files and Quincy, all Sept. 16. CBS: Wonder Woman and Logan's Run, Sept. 16, and Switch, Sept. 23. ABC: Donnie and Marie, Sept. 23.

SATURDAY — NBC: Bionic Woman, Sept. 10. CBS: Bob Newhart, Sept. 24; We've Got Each Other, Oct. 1; The Jeffersons, Tony Randall and Carol Burnett, all Sept. 24. ABC: Fish, Operation Petticoat and Starsky and Hutch, all Sept. 17; Love Boat, Sept. 24.

Pony to recover from 4-year confinement

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — King, a 10-year-old Shetland pony confined for four years in a nailed-shut stall piled high with manure, will recover completely now that almost a foot-and-a-half of deformed hoof has been removed, veterinarians said today.

Dr. Walter Hilton, who is directing King's treatment, said after evaluating laboratory tests and X rays that "the film showed no growth abnormalities in King's legs, nor any signs of underlying disease."

"King's about the most tenacious pony I've ever seen," Hilton said of the pony that has gained national attention. "He's got an unbelievable will to live and that's probably why he is still around."

Earlier this week, Hilton, and blacksmith Bill McPhee, undertook a three-hour intricate procedure in which they sliced, chipped, and filed away pounds of deformed bone and hoof which had accumulated during the pony's imprisonment.

About three weeks ago, officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals discovered King trapped in the fly-and maggot-infested stall, standing atop a four-foot-high pile of manure in a garage in Plaistow.

The Palamino-colored pony was suffering from the most severe case of the deformity called laminitis the veterinarians said they had ever seen. Its hooves had grown about 18 inches beyond their normal length and they curved toward his knees like the runners on a rocking horse.

In Tuesday's operation, at the University of New Hampshire, the grotesquely curved hooves were carefully whittled back to almost their normal size.

But even as King stepped gingerly on normal hooves for the first time in years, doctors were saying that only X rays would give a clear picture of whether the pony was walking to a new life, or to eventual destruction because of possible hidden bone damage.

Today's optmistic prognosis ruled out the somber alternative.

"One of our biggest problems now," said Hilton, "is making sure they don't kill him with love."

A hand-printed sign in King's stall says "Please leave all apples, carrots and sugar cubes outside."

Since his rescue the 3½-foot-tall pony has become an international celebrity. Hundreds of letters, get-well cards and telephone calls stream in every day. Many of the cards and letters contain money to pay for King's treatment. Others promise a "friendly and caring" home.

King's former owner, Barbara Reed of Plaistow, a 58-year-old widow, is scheduled to appear in court Sept. 13, to face cruelty charges.

Seduction laws ruled outmoded

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Missouri's seduction and breach of promise laws are largely outmoded and unnecessary and may need to be abolished, the Missouri Court of Appeals has stated.

The court reversed a 1975 conviction under the state laws Tuesday on technicalities but took the opportunity to state in its opinion that the General Assembly should examine the laws "to determine whether they are compatible with modern society and whether they should be abolished once and for all — especially as such actions relate to a mature adult woman."

The case in which the opinion was stated reversed a St. Louis County Circuit Court ruling in which Sharon A. Breece was awarded damages after she claimed that Mishka C. Jett had seduced her through a false promise of marriage and converted much of her property to his own use.

"Recent social trends and changing mores of contemporary societies concerning sex and morality and the new-found status of women may well make the action of seduction a remedy of a bygone era" and may be socially unwise, the court said.

The opinion also said that along with new freedoms for women comes responsibility for their actions.

"The woman of today is not the woman of yesterday," the opinion written by Chief Judge Joseph J. Simeone said. "She has a new-found freedom. The modern adult woman is sophisticated and mature; the former notion — that women belong to the weaker sex — has long been abandoned. The modern woman is not easily 'beguiled' and does not easily fall to the 'wiles' of man. Women desire and should be held to a reasonable responsibility."

While the opinion stated its objections to the seduction laws, it noted that it is not in a position to abolish them. The General Assembly must do that, the opinion said.

ROGER MOORE as JAMES BOND 007 in "THE SPY WHO LOVED ME"

60 years ago
September 2, 1917

Miss Shelby of Charleston, will succeed Miss Vernetta Murchison as teacher at the Fairview School.

Nancy Ellen Vick, wife of L. E. Vick, died August 28th, after an illness of about 18 months, aged 44 years. She was the mother of nine children, seven of whom are living. Mr. and Mrs. Vick and children moved to Sikeston last September from Marion, Ky., where she spent the greater partof her life.

Glenn Fish of Kahoka, Mo., has taken a position as druggist at the Derris Drug Store.

R. E. Limbaugh, on Wednesday, bought the W. H. Thomas residence on Shelby and Scott streets and will occupy the same as soon as Mr. Thomas can move out of it. The former will continue to operate the farm, south of town.

50 years ago
September 2, 1927

Miss Ruth McDaniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. McDaniel, will go to Cape Girardeau Saturday, where she will enroll as a student in a business college.

Billy Baker of Northwest street is remodeling his residence.

Chas Fromme will leave in a few days for Jefferson City, where he will be inspector of equipment for the State Highway Department. He has been connected with similar work in Division 10 of the Highway Department the past two years. Mr. Fromme's family will go to Jefferson City as soon as they can get possession of their residence, which they own in the State Capital and which was rented to other people when they moved here.

Blodgett -- Miss Helen Slinkard of Chaffee has returned to Blodgettt to teach. The other teachers who have arrived are: Mr. Rhodes, superintendent, from Gideon; Mr. Koerber of Cape; Miss Mary Davis of Mongomery City; Miss Martha Fitcher of Sikeston; and Clay Aslin of Bloomfield. Miss Ruth Hamby and Miss Mabel Caughlin will teach in the grades and are home girls. School opened August 29th.

Mrs. E. R. Putnam and children, E. R., jr., and Rosemary, returned home Sunday from a short visit with Mrs. Putnam's sister, Mrs. T. J. Evans at her cottage on Wilson Lake near Florence, Ala.

Mrs. Merle Evans entertained a group of children Thursday at her home on Prosperity, in honor of the first birth anniversary of her son, Randol Bynum.

Boys who formerly trod the field of glory for dear old Sikeston High School will put on football togs on September 9 and matched against Coach "Peg" Mahew's 1937 squad and see if they have lost any of the old ginger. Alumni have already begun training and loosening up creaking joints by working out at the football field along with members of the high school squad.

Minus a coach, the team will be directed by Vernon "Sheik" Jones, who was quarterback on the'34 team. Among those in the alumni lineup are: Paul "Tootie" Jones, Chester "Corie" Conrad, Ike Alliston, H. C. Bennett, Joe Dover, Albert Hunter, Clarence Felker, Jones, G. B. Greer, Bill Bob "Ironhead" Donnell, and Moore "Cockeye" Greer. Substitutes will be: Herband Bandy, Buddy Thrower, Leo Cunningham, Harry Harty, Charles Cook, and J. N. Sitzes.

Steps eyed to preserve gubernatorial

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick and Atty. Gen. John Ashcroft say steps will be taken in the future to ensure that correspondence and other documents of governors that have "archival" significance will be preserved.

But the two state officials, after emerging from a 2½-hour meeting on Wednesday, agreed that former Gov. Christopher S. Bond did not act improperly in destroying the general correspondence from his term in office.

Kirkpatrick had questioned the authority of Bond and his aides to rely on a 1969 records schedule calling for the documents' destruction. But after the meeting with Ashcroft both men said the former governor's actions were not improper since that schedule had never been formally changed by the state records commission to require the letters to be preserved.

"There were times when the commission voted that correspondence should be maintained through the audit period," Ashcroft said, "But that was never translated to the records schedule.

"It would have been possible for a person acting in good faith to have destroyed all those things in reliance on the 1969 schedule," said Ashcroft, who serves on the commission.

Kirkpatrick, who has headed the commission since it was created in 1965, had contended that under state law the letters were public records that should be maintained and that they were essential to historians and archivists.

Such letters—to and from state, local and federal officials and citizens—make up the bulk of public papers preserved from administrations since 1911 through that of Bond's predecessor Warren Hearnes.

Earlier in the day Bond had labeled as "ludicrous" Kirkpatrick's statement's that his administration should not have relied on a records schedule approved for a previous governor.

"That schedule is mad

contended. "I think Jim

Steps eyed to preserve gubernatorial letters

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick and Atty. Gen. John Ashcroft say steps will be taken in the future to ensure that correspondence and other documents of governors that have "archival" significance will be preserved.

But the two state officials, after emerging from a 2½-hour meeting on Wednesday, agreed that former Gov. Christopher S. Bond did not act improperly in destroying the general correspondence from his term in office.

Kirkpatrick had questioned the authority of Bond and his aides to rely on a 1969 records schedule calling for the documents' destruction. But after the meeting with Ashcroft both men said the former governor's actions were not improper since that schedule had never been formally changed by the state records commission to require the letters to be preserved.

"There were times when the commission voted that correspondence should be maintained through the audit period," Ashcroft said, "But that was never translated to the records schedule.

"It would have been possible for a person acting in good faith to have destroyed all those things in reliance on the 1969 schedule," said Ashcroft, who serves on the commission.

Kirkpatrick, who has headed the commission since it was created in 1965, had contended that under state law the letters were public records that should be maintained and that they were essential to historians and archivists.

Such letters—to and from state, local and federal officials and citizens—make up the bulk of public papers preserved from administrations since 1911 through that of Bond's predecessor Warren Hearnes.

Earlier in the day Bond had labeled as "ludicrous" Kirkpatrick's statement's that his administration should not have relied on a records schedule approved for a previous governor.

"That schedule is made for the governor's office and not any particular occupant," Bond contended. "I think Jim Kirkpatrick's memory is either failing or it's being clouded by excessive partisanship."

Kirkpatrick has denied any political motivation in attempting to determine the disposition of the more than 20,000 letters and other documents. He ahs worked through Ashcroft as an intermediary in negotiating with officials of the former Republican governor's administration.

The Democratic secretary of state said that he had attempted to initiate a records schedule for the Bond administration two days after Bond was inaugurated, but his efforts were ignored until 20 months later. He said it was the normal policy to work with an agency to develop a schedule, but he said he now plans to recommend that the records commission order all documents to be preserved if attempts to set up a records schedule are ignored.

Kirkpatrick began seeking the correspondence and other documents shortly after Bond left office and turned over only 18 boxes of material to the state archives. That compared to 602 boxes turned over by Hearnes, who served two terms. Bond has said that material is "everything that's kept that's official.

Before the meeting between Ashcroft and Kirkpatrick, both Bond and his former legal advisor, Charles Valier, said the correspondence had been destroyed under the authority of the 1969 schedule.

But Valier, to whom Bond has referred all inquiries about the papers, did not mention that when he was initially contacted about the correspondence last week. At that time, he said that it was Bond's policy "from day one ... that when something was over with, if there was no requirement to keep it, you just get rid of it."

He said that if the records commission would have revised the schedule and ordered the correspondence retained, it would have been.

"If there's an interest in preserving things, then the state records commission is going to have to do a better job of it," Valier said. "It's Kirkpatrick's fault if the schedule is not complete."

Since the situation with the Bond correspondence developed, the records schedule has been changed. The one now in effect for the administration of Gov. Joseph Teasdale calls for all correspondence to be turned over to the state archives.

Democratic State Auditor Thomas Keyes, who serves on the commission, said his initial reaction to the situation is "they should destroy nothing. From the viewpoint of this office, the best thing in the world would be to have everything, including the scraps of paper off the desk."

But Keyes acknowledged that in auditing Bond's term, it was not necessary to examine correspondence.

Reservations voiced on air deregulation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., predicted Tuesday that Congress will eventually approve airline deregulation legislation, but said he would not support it unless the interests of larger airlines and industry employes are protected.

Danforth, a member of the Senate Commerce Committee considering the bill, said he is concerned about provisions for so-called automatic entry. Airlines would be allowed to enter new markets without approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board, but Danforth said as the bill is currently written, it discriminates against the larger carriers.

However, he said he has worked out an agreement with Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., committee chairman, to equalize the treatment of large and small airlines.

Danforth said he believed airline workers who can demonstrate that their jobs were lost or their income was reduced as a result of legislation should be compensated. But the first-term senator said he had come to no conclusions about how such payments should be struc turedand has no agreement with Cannon on that provision.

The Missouri senator said talks with officials and union leaders from Trans World Airlines had prompted his concern on airline deregulation. He said he did not expect the legislation to get out of committee in September because of the press of other business.

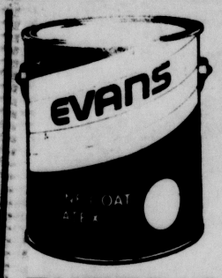

The senator made the statements at a news conference at Kansas City International Airport.
